AF Warned Texas Tower Was Damaged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said Wednesday it was warned that Texas radar tower No. 4 was in serious shape three days before the structure collapsed in a storm off the New Jersey coast last Jan. 15, killing all 28 occupants.

Joseph V. Charyk, undersecretary of the Air Force, told the Senate Preparedness subcommittee the warning came from an architects-engineering firm at a Jan. 12 meeting.

Another witness, Navy Capt. John J. Albers, described the tragic loss as "more an act of God than of man." Albers, of the Navy civil engineering corps, said he was responsible for design of the tower, as well as that of Texas towers No. 2 and No. 3 which still are operating.

Charyk traced the history of the ill-fated tower and its batterings by a series of storms, including Hurricane Donna on Sept. 12 last year, and of efforts to repair the structure starting back in 1958. The tower was nicknamed "Old Shaky" long before it fell into the ocean.

When Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., brought out from Charyk that the Air Force had been warned, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., cut off the questioning. Stennis said the subcommittee had agreed to carry only up to Jan. 12 its investigation into reasons for the tower's collapse. The subcommittee is looking particularly into charges that the structure was weak.

But it is not going beyond Jan. 12 so as not to interfere with Air Force proceedings in connection with failure to evacuate the men on the tower before it collapsed. A colonel and two majors face charges in this connection.

The subcommittee questioned witnesses at length about where Navy responsibility ended and Air Force responsibility began. Charyk said the Navy was responsible for design and construction, but that difficulties showed up after the first year and these were treated as maintenance problems rather than original defects. The Air Force operated the tower.

Mine Bill Passed

HARRISBURG (AP) — A measure to permit use of $8.5 million left in a federal state mine drainage fund to seal abandoned coal mines in the anthracite region was passed 49-0 by the Senate Wednesday.

Miss Elizabeth Martin Is Golden Deeds Winner

A SPRIGHTLY little woman who has handled a man-sized job in Monroe County government for nearly 34 years is the Golden Deeds Award winner for 1961.

She is Miss Elizabeth G. Martin, probation officer for girls and women and supervisor for the County Institution District.

Her nomination for the honor was announced last night by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club, sponsor of the annual award.

Formal presentation of the Golden Deeds Award will take place Monday night, May 22, at a dinner to be held at the Mountain Lake House, Marshalls Creek.

Miss Martin was chosen on the basis of her "unselfish service to the community over a long span of years" according to Horace G. Walters, chairman of the Exchange Club committee which made the selection after studying the qualifications of all the nominees.

Assisting Walters in reaching the decision were Ralph Burrows, James Bunnell, Gilbert Dunning, Henry Evans, Fred Eyer, Elwood Hoffman, James Kester, Thomas Kistler, Raymond Mansfield and Adolph Rake.

A native of Stroudsburg, Miss Martin is a daughter of the late J. Calvin Martin and Emma Louise Flory Martin. She was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1902, but returned the next year to enroll in the school's first commercial course.

Upon receiving her commercial diploma in 1903, Miss Martin began working in the office of Cicero Gearhart, attorney.

She later became secretary for the law firm of Shull and Shull on an extra-time basis, and held down both positions until 1921 when she resigned to fulfill a lifelong ambition to enter the nursing field.

In 1924 Miss Martin was graduated as a registered nurse from the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia. There were few nursing jobs available then, so she took a job as secretary to Frank B. Michaels of the Stroudsburg Security Trust Co. for several months.

In 1925, Miss Martin was appointed school nurse in East Stroudsburg and she held the position for three years.

She returned to the legal field Oct. 1, 1927 as a court stenographer and probation officer for girls, succeeding Mrs. B. F. Apple in the latter position. She served as court stenographer nine years.

Miss Martin works with the police and court in solving problems of delinquency among girls and also deals with persons involved in non-support actions. As supervisor of the Institution District, she counsels and assists those with relatives needing care in the mental hospitals and retarded children's homes in the state.

Miss Martin, who resides at 521 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, is a member of Jacob Stroud Chapter, DAR, and a descendant of Barnet Fenner, pioneer settler of Pennersville, near Sciota.

She is a charter member of the Monroe County Children's Aid Society and still a board member, and is a member of the Mental Health Assn. board of directors, Monroe County Historical Society, Business and Professional Women's Club and the Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

House Vote Is Thumping Win For JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration won a thumping victory in the House Wednesday when its minimum wage bill was approved by a surprising 230-196 margin.

Passage by the House completed congressional action on the controversial measure, to which President Kennedy had given top priority among his legislative proposals. The Senate approved it earlier 64-28.

The bill boosts the existing $1.25 an-hour minimum wage to $1.50 over a 28-month period and brings 3.62 million retail and service industry employees under the act's coverage for the first time.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg applauded the action as a great advance in social legislation. He said the bill will afford "long overdue protection to a large group of underprivileged Americans."

Wage Protection "This is the first and big step toward providing minimum wage protection to all Americans whom the federal law can appropriate. ly cover," he added.

Twice before in the House similar bills had gone down to defeat before a conservative coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Up until Wednesday's vote each side was talking of victory by two or three votes.

Ironically, it was a combination of Southern Democrats and big city Republicans that helped the administration win. Thirty-three Republicans, most of them from areas hard hit by unemployment, bolted the conservative coalition as did nearly half the Southern Democrats.

Voting for the bill were 197 Democrats and 33 Republicans. Against it were 58 Democrats and 138 Republicans.

The key to winning Southern support was a series of exemptions for specific groups written into the bill during a House-Senate conference. These removed certain cotton gin employees, tobacco processors, livestock auctioneers and others from coverage.

Fighting In Laos Ending

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Pro-Communist Laotian rebels proclaimed a cease-fire effective at 8 a.m. Wednesday. A later attack by the rebels on a key town in the narrow southern waist of Laos failed to dim hopes here that all fighting soon would stop.

The general tendency was to blame the assault, in battalion size, at Pha Lane on a failure in communications. Western military experts have predicted there would be some incidents and fighting even after a formal cease-fire.

The cease-fire order to Pathet Lao forces and their rebel allies was broadcast over North Viet Nam's Hanoi radio.

Make Appeal

It was coupled with an appeal to the Western-backed Laotian government of Premier Boun Oum to negotiate an armistice followed by a peace conference.

It was disclosed that neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, recognized by the Communists as legal premier of Laos, called on all parties in the civil war to gather Friday for political conference to discuss a new coalition government at Na Mon village, site of the military truce talks.

A New China News Agency dispatch said the call was broadcast by the rebel voice of Laos Wednesday night.

Souvanna said the discussions would concern "first of all the question of a coalition government and that of Laos' representation at the Geneva conference."

Neither the fighting at Pha Lane, 50 miles east of Savannakhet, nor a rebel attack on Hin Heup, 50 miles north of Vientiane, clouded hope that both sides in the long war were inching toward a halt in the conflict. An armistice could pave the way to a political solution to be weighed by 14 nations at a conference in Geneva.

Pha Lane is on a highway that runs east into Viet Nam at a point below the North-South Viet Nam frontier. Government forces holding the road have access to supplies from South Viet Nam. Rebel forces could use the highway for a supply route from Communist North Viet Nam.

Boun Oum's government, on the basis of the first contacts, announced that a provisional cease-fire was effective along the Luang Prabang - Vientiane road in the area where the envoys were meeting.

There had been a lull in shooting, based on general agreement, since late Monday.

A-Attack Retaliatory Weapon

U.S. Underground Rocket Shot Is A Huge Success

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A huge Titan missile thundered out of its underground lair Wednesday in a successful first test of a "hardened" ICBM launch system. It was intentionally destroyed about 40 miles down the Pacific missile range after surviving two periods of severe stress. Its range is 5,000 miles and more.

The test pioneered an armored underground launch system designed to enable the United States to strike back after atomic attack.

The prime goal was to learn if the two-stage Titan, this country's largest and most powerful rocket, could survive the flame and sound-wave punishment of leaving its hole.

It did, and later came through another all-out buffeting 20 miles up.

The Air Force, fearing either assault might be enough to destroy the missile, said it was delighted.

The firing took place despite a 40-knot wind that kicked up visibility-obscuring dust.

The launch hole, called a silo, is similar to those being rushed to completion at various Titan bases.

The silo systems are designed to survive and shoot back after anything but a direct hit by a nuclear or thermonuclear bomb.

The one tested Wednesday is tailored for a new model Titan capable of almost instant firing. Earlier models, which had to be led before firing, required a 15-minute countdown.

Fourteen Titan squadrons had been planned, but the Kennedy administration recently recommended eliminating two.

The launch site was atop a low, brushy hill 3½ miles inland from the sea.

Crucial part of the launch was getting the missile out of the hole and safely through a "sound barrier" just above.

The way the system works: The 97-foot missile's 300,000-pound thrust engine is ignited near the bottom of the 146-foot deep silo. The missile is inside a tube within the silo.

The fiery exhaust blast hits the silo's bottom, then is deflected up the sides and out the top by a "W" shaped deflector. The tube keeps the missile from being buried.

A major hazard is intense sonic vibration, created by blast noise, as the missile leaves the hole. It creates potentially damaging high frequency vibrations in the missile's skin. To measure it, the test Titan was equipped with vibration records at various points.

Out Of The Hole

Once out of the hole, there was another hurdle: An extreme stress test, possibly beyond Titan's design limit—the first such it has undergone.

At 96 seconds, 20 miles up, they cut off the automatic pilot which keeps the missile stable and on course. Allowed to run free, it was supposed to pitch and yaw and actually bend.

Finally, after 140 seconds, 40 miles out, the range safety officer blew it up—as part of a test of the range safety system.

The second stage, filled with water for this run, was not separated.

Titan's silos are fantastically complicated systems of concreted-in subterranean chambers and tunnels. There are compartments for fuel, power generation, control — even living quarters for strategic air command crews. They may be made independent of the surface, even of food and other supplies.

U.S. Plans Crackdown On Business 'Expense' Tabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you want to charge your yacht off on your income tax return, the Treasury has some clues on how to do it.

Did you know, for example, that a shoe manufacturer successfully claimed $16,943 of yacht operations as a business expense? He was using the yacht at various ports, he said, to demonstrate to customers a sneaker with a nonskid sole.

Then there was the yacht owned by a mortuary business. This corporation said the vessel was used to entertain visiting undertakers and clergymen and for meetings of employees. Business deduction allowed: $8,591.

Other Cases

These and dozens of other cases are described in a report by the Internal Revenue Service on 38,000 returns claiming business expenditures for travel and entertainment. Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon gave it to Congress Wednesday in support of the Kennedy administration recommendation for a crackdown on expense account living.

"There are few of the luxuries of life" which a "large number of taxpayers cannot in some way deduct on tax returns as business expenses," Dillon told the House Ways and Means Committee.

The administration proposes to disallow expenses for entertaining at parties, night clubs and theaters and for such things as yachts, hunting lodges and country club memberships. It also would limit deductions incurred on business trips.

Unless and until Congress changes the law, the IRS booklet should be a gold mine of ideas for those who can undertake this kind of living.

The revenue service adjusted some 48 per cent of the returns, disallowing $28.3 million of deductions.

Start Food Stamp Plan On June 1

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence Wednesday set June 1 for President Kennedy's food stamp plan to go into effect in Fayette County.

The program will provide food purchase subsidies for some 7,000 households immediately and pump between $35,000 and $70,000 a week into the economy of the depressed region, Lawrence told his weekly news conference.

Fayette County is one of eight regions in the U.S. selected for pilot programs under the stamp plan. Registration for the food purchase subsidies will begin May 17.

The southwestern county is one of the nation's hardest-hit areas of chronic unemployment. Presently it has an unemployment rate of 29.7 per cent of its work force. At the same time, the governor, as well as U.S. Agriculture Department officials at the news conference, promised to crack down hard on individuals or retailers chiseling on the stamp plan.

13 Students Survive

Seagoing 'School' Sinks In Squall; Six Drown

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A square-rigged student cruise ship sank in a furious Gulf of Mexico squall Tuesday, trapping and drowning six persons below deck, including a woman physician who was the skipper's wife.

News of the tragedy that befell the "floating classroom," a state-aided two-masted brigantine named the Albatross, came Wednesday when the Dutch freighter Gran Rio picked up 13 survivors in lifeboats.

Among the rescued was Christopher B. Sheldon, 34, the vessel's captain, who told by radio of his 200-ton sailing ship's end.

"The storm hit without warning," he said. "There was no chance to get off a distress message. Those below deck had no chance to escape. The ship sank in a minute."

Most of those aboard were teenagers of wealthy parents. Listed as 1st, besides Dr. Alice Sheldon, 30, the captain's wife, were four of the students and a cook.

The 13 survivors aboard the Dutch freighter are due to land at Tampa, Fla., Thursday. Besides the captain, they include two teachers and 10 boy students ranging in age from 15 to 17.

The end of the 92-foot vessel, from Mystic, Conn., was sudden and tragic. When the subtropical storm struck at 9 a.m., she went down in a minute, in 1,000 fathoms of water, according to word received by the Coast Guard.

Six persons were trapped below decks, but the winds wrenched lifeboats free and left them floating, enabling the 13 survivors to board them.

With violent thunderheads overhead, they rode out the night in the vicinity of the tragedy, about 180 miles northwest of Key West. Then the freighter hove into sight at 8 a.m. today and picked them up.

Educational Trips The Albatross, one of the last of the brigantines, was an educational venture which combined the rugged work of seamanship with instruction in educational subjects, ranging from mathematics to Spanish.

The skipper, Christopher B. Sheldon of Darien, Conn., had a long list of degrees and a background of expert seamanship. He was reported saved.

His wife reported lost, was Dr. N. Alice Sheldon, 30, of Darien, with an A. B. from Wellesley College and as M. D. from Cornell.

OBITUARIES

Howard Rockefeller, 66, S-Burg Insurance Aide

HOWARD A. Rockefeller, 66, of 25 Club Court, Stroudsburg, died at 1:15 a.m. yesterday in Monroe County General Hospital, after a short illness.

He had been a lifelong resident of the area and had represented the New York Life Insurance Co. for 33 years as field underwriter.

He was born in East Stroudsburg the son of William H. and Alti Ace Rockefeller, and was active in the Monroe County Life Underwriters. He was president of the Roundtable Insurance Companies of Pennsylvania and a member of George N. Kemp Post 346, American Legion. He was a veteran of World War I Navy service and a member of First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg.

Surviving are his mother; his wife, Mrs. Mildred Rockefeller; two sisters, Miss Sue Rockefeller, and Miss Elizabeth Rockefeller, both of East Stroudsburg, and one brother, P. A. Rockefeller, Delaware Water Gap.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home.

Howard Rockefeller

Rev. John A. Bollier will officiate and burial will be in Laurelwood Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Dr. Flagler's Funeral Tomorrow

FUNERAL services for Dr. Charles S. Flagler, 73, of 44 N. Sixth St., Stroudsburg, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Friday in Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Rev. Roger C. Stimson will officiate and cremation will be in Maple Hill Crematorium, Wilkes-Barre. Friends may call at the church from noon Friday until time of services. Masonic services will be held at 8 p.m. today in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home.

Dr. Flagler, a general practitioner for almost 50 years, died at 12:10 a.m. yesterday in Monroe County General Hospital, where he was admitted after suffering a stroke at his home early Monday.

He was the last surviving member of the original medical staff of the hospital and was chief of staff from 1936 to 1951.

L. F. Andre Burial Held

FUNERAL services for Llewellyn F. Andre, 49, of Stroudsburg RD 3, were held yesterday at 2 p.m. in the Dunkelberger and Westbrook Funeral Home with Rev. Adan A. Bohner officiating.

Interment was in the Mt. Zion Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Walter Burrier, James Paul, Roger Heller, Fred Bell, Carl Fribel and Walter Crowley.

and from 1953 to 1957. He was a director of Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co. since 1920 and chairman of the board since 1940.

Dr. Flagler would have completed 50 years of general practice on June 3 and the Monroe County Medical Society planned to honor him with a testimonial dinner on the night of the anniversary.

Considered Dean Considered the "dean" of the medical profession in Monroe County, he was a member of the staff organized in 1915 by the old General Hospital on North Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg. The hospital moved to its present location on East Brown Street in 1921.

Harry J. Smith, hospital superintendent, said yesterday: "He was a true friend and a man you could depend on without doubt. His contribution to the hospital was of inestimable value. As chief of staff, he did a tough job very well."

Dr. Flagler served as a lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army Medical Corps during World War I. As a field hospital commander, he saw several major engagements in France and often worked under fire.

Following the war, he joined the reserves and made military affairs a hobby. Frank S. LaBar, Stroudsburg, who served with him in the 79th Infantry Division for 15 years, said that although he was a medical officer, Dr. Flagler's knowledge of infantry tactics was considered superior to that of the high ranking professional officer.

"During the briefings which followed a tactical problem, it was always Charley Flagler who came up with the right answer, even though there were generals at the conference," LaBar said.

LaBar, former chairman of the board of directors of the General Hospital and a Monroe Security director, was to have served as master of ceremonies at the testimonial for Dr. Flagler.

Fine Man "He tried to present a rough, tough exterior, but he was really as soft as butter," LaBar said of Dr. Flagler. "He was a truly fine man with a very soft heart."

Dr. Flagler was an authority on the battlefields of the Civil War. He visited every state in which engagements were fought during the war between the states and specialized in the study of the Gettysburg campaign. His most recent trip to a southern battlefield occurred a month ago.

A native of Stroudsburg, he was a son of the late James and Alice Flagler. He attended public schools in Stroudsburg and was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1901.

He was a graduate of the University of North Carolina class of 1909 and the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, class of 1911.

A Masonic leader for 50 years, he was past master of Barger Lodge 325, F&M; past high priest of Monroe Royal Arch Chapter 281; past commander of the Samuel S. Yohe Commandery 81, Knights Templar, all of Stroudsburg, and a member of the Lehigh Consistory, Allentown, and Iron Temple Shrine, Wilkes-Barre.

He was a member of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church and the Faithful Men's class of the Sunday School.

In addition to the medical society, he was a member of the Monroe County Historical Society and the Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club and a member and past commander of the George N. Kemp Post, American Legion, East Stroudsburg.

Surviving are his widow, the former Katherine Adams; one daughter, Mrs. Walter Kautzman, Princeton, N.J., and three grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers make contributions to Memorial Fund, Monroe County General Hospital.

Tobyhanna Resident, 69

ANTONIO Caligiuri, 69, of Tobyhanna, died yesterday at his home. He was the husband of Mrs. Antonietta Caligiuri.

He was born in Italy the son of the late Michael and Angela Caligiuri and came to the United States in 1908.

Mr. Caligiuri had been a resident of Tobyhanna for the past 10 years having moved into the county from Chester County, where he had resided for 38 years.

He had been a mushroom grower for the past 50 years.

Mr. Caligiuri was a member of St. Mary of the Mount Roman Catholic Church.

In addition to his wife he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Mary Saganich; three sons, John, Joseph and Anthony, all of Tobyhanna; 11 grandchildren; and one brother, Augustus in Italy.

Requiem High Mass will be celebrated Saturday at 10 a.m. in St. Mary of the Mount Church with Msgr. C. A. McHugh as the celebrant.

Interment will be in the Gates of Heaven section of Laurelwood Cemetery, Stroudsburg.

Friends and relatives may call at the William H. Clark Funeral Home Friday after 7 p.m.

Rosary services will be conducted in the funeral home Friday at 8 p.m.

Police Head's Brother Hurt

LEIGHTON, Pa. (AP)—James McCartney, of Coaldale, a brother of Col. Frank G. McCartney, state police commissioner, was injured by an automobile Tuesday night as he directed traffic in the Lehigh Tunnel of the turnpike's Northeast Extension. He is an employee of the Turnpike Commission.

Attendants at Gnaden-Huetton Hospital said McCartney's condition is fair.

State police said the automobile was driven by Ernest Reumassa, of Leighton, R. D. 1.

No Injuries In Collision Of Truck, 3 Parked Cars

MT. POCONO—No one was injured in a collision involving a truck and three parked cars at 1:30 a.m. yesterday on Route 611 here. Damage was estimated at more than $2,500.

State Police of the local barracks said a truck being driven north by Stanley Caruth, 68, Moscow, RD, went off the right side of the road and hit cars owned by William Davis, 45, Hamilton Township, and William D. and Mary G. Lutz, Stroudsburg, to Sumner F., Jr., and Jean S. Bossler, same address, two properties in Smithfield Township.

Fire Put Out By Intense Heat

MT. POCONO—Four units of the Mt. Pocono Volunteer Fire Dept. answered an alarm at 11:55 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Joseph Dougherty, 99 Fairview Ave. No service was required.

Investigators said Caruth will be charged with reckless driving.

Firemen said the fire was caused by a broken fire brick on a furnace on the main floor of the house, which permitted flames to ignite the flooring of the utility room in which the furnace was located.

The intense heat melted a water line, which extinguished the blaze. Damage was reported slight, caused mostly by smoke.

At 2:15 a.m., Sunday, firemen used a carbon dioxide extinguisher to put out a fire in a car owned by Andrew Boyko, Avoca, on Route 611.

Firemen said fluid from the automatic transmission leaked onto the exhaust pipe and ignited. Damage from the fire was slight, but extensive repairs were needed, firemen said.

At 3:25 p.m. last Thursday, firemen were summoned to a tractor-trailer loaded with explosives, but no service was needed. It was owned by Erie Trucking Co., Kane, and driven by Arnold Peterson.

After World War I, Germany issued coins made of porcelain and papier-mache.

'Operation Abolition'

"OPERATION Abolition," a documentary film on the House Un-American Activities Committee hearings in San Francisco last year, was shown to the Gamma Theta Upsilon fraternity yesterday at ESSC.

The film, which was presented through the courtesy of John Brislin, followed the election of new officers for the next school year.

Named to head the local chapter of the national Geography society was Warren Slomcum. Others elected were Ron Schwartz, vice president; Clara Booth, secretary and John Semlan, treasurer.

The new officials will succeed Joseph Petraglia, Bob Scull, Rosemary Schwartz and Anthony Cowan, respectively.

Bolstering Weak Points

The necessary task of converting the Cuban failure into a lesson of value properly begins with the Central Intelligence Agency.

How far from its mission, of fact-gathering the CIA has strayed is indicated by its many roles prior to the landing of anti-Castroites in Cuba.

Its agents dispensed funds for arms. It assigned officers to train battle groups. The CIA sheltered the Cuban Revolutionary Council leaders and in effect, guided their participation in the liberation effort.

Such participation tends to shape policy, even if it doesn't finally determine it. It is only natural, therefore, that CIA should bear the brunt of complaints for all that went wrong.

Cuba is by no means the only arena of recent miscalculation. There have been our recent questionable allegiances in the new nations of Asia and Africa. Deficient information has left us second-guessing in the world's trouble spots ever since Korea.

Certainly, the CIA cannot be totally responsible. But strategy and counter-tactics can never be better than the information on which they are based.

In the past, improvements suggested by the Hoover Commission and the Gen. Doolittle study group have failed to get beyond the covers of their comprehensive reports.

Congress will be remiss if it fails to give greater attention to recommendations that Gen. Maxwell Taylor's current investigation may produce.

Civil Defense: What Really Counts

If there is any sense of futility about civil defense alert, such as that held last Friday, it exists in the minds of a public that remains apathetic toward and unconcerned about such preparations.

True, CD officials claimed better public cooperation. But the greatest benefit of these exercises continues to be a testing and perfecting of procedures and techniques by the hard core of personnel dedicated to this chaos-preventing work.

Most people haven't even bothered thinking about the best spot in their homes or their offices to duck into in case a real attack warning comes. Fewer still have taken the rudimentary precautions of maintaining adequate auxiliary food and water supplies—or even thought of doing so.

If CD is inefficient in this Nation, State and Community, as some charge, much of the fault lies with a public that doesn't care enough to cooperate with or to support the people who do care enough to devote their energies to it.

Certainly, those who demonstrated in Pennsylvania and elsewhere against the test haven't the answer. Slogans like "Build peace, not a shelter" are non-sequiturs. One needn't be a war monger or an agitator against peace-building through negotiations to be in favor of steps that could assure a percentage of survival in case of attack. Even in all-out nuclear attack, there is a mounting body of scientific evidence to support the thesis that survival outside the actual impact area is possible—with proper precautions.

Not at least try makes far less sense than even half-hearted preparations. And what if an enemy is "sneaky" enough not to use nuclear weapons, but to rely on improved variations of good old blockbusters?

CD estimates of how many might have been killed in this test or that really matter very little. What counts to any individual is himself and his family. If adequate CD preparation even adds 5 per cent to post-attack survival chances for those so vital to each of us, then a proper CD set-up is worth the effort, the cost and the "nuisance" of cooperating.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Fixed Responsibility

The Constitution makes the President the chief executive and administrative official of the United States. In that respect he acts as a Prime Minister, presiding over a Cabinet of non-political persons; that is, no member of the Cabinet is an elected official. All are literally secretaries to the President with fixed but limited authority.

Each member of the Cabinet serves at the pleasure of the President. No member has political responsibility in his own name.

Not all agencies of Government are directly or indirectly related to the Cabinet or to any particular Cabinet officer. Many agencies of government are independent and function under special laws passed by Congress.

Some of these agencies are supervised by Committees of Congress. The President is responsible for all of them but some officials are appointed for a period of years and may overlap Presidential terms; they may even be antagonistic to the incumbent in office.

Many of the personnel of government may not be dismissed except for cause after a hearing; a cumbersome process which is responsible for the infiltration of government departments by Communists, homosexuals, blabber-mouths and feather-bedders who keep the decent folks in constant disorder. Therefore, whereas the President is politically responsible for the whole of his Administration, he does not have control of all of it. A large part of the government personnel is under some form of civil service, which provides prescribed tenure.

Some, like the secondary personnel of the State Department, can and do form policy concerning which the President may have no knowledge.

In fact, in the large and loose organization of government departments, expanded during the New Deal to make work and further expanded during war out of necessity, even the head of a Department cannot watch all the secondary personnel in their daily tasks and ought not to be required to.

Thus, we suffer a Cuban fiasco, for which two officials, Roy Rubottom Jr. and William A. Wieland, should, on the chart, be held responsible during their term. However, as the system works, instead of being dismissed, Rubottom was appointed Ambassador to the Argentine and Wieland sits about pending a Senatorial investigation.

If, as many claim, the errors were made by the CIA and the State Department, or by a President's predecessor, the President is nevertheless personally and politically responsible. His responsibility being political, he is limited in his conduct by the fact that there is a Congressional election every second year and a Presidential election every fourth year.

The President is also head of State, a ceremonial position, responsible for protocol appearances, such as dropping everything to welcome a visitor from abroad, provided the visitor is of sufficient rank.

He must also entertain on many formal occasions, with or without his wife as protocol dictates. As head of State, his personal conduct is a matter of news, as is the conduct of his wife and children.

The President of the United States has no private life because he is always in the presence of the Secret Service and of newspaper reporters and photographers.

The principal task of a President is to keep himself informed about the multitudinous affairs of his Administration. This is an actual impossibility. No matter how much energy a President has, he cannot see all the heads of agencies or read all the reports that come over his desk.

To do so, he would have to stretch each day into a week. A President therefore has his own staff upon which he becomes increasingly dependent; he must also accept the data provided by various agencies of government, particularly by his Cabinet officers, as truthful and correct.

A well-formed, well-read, previously conditioned President might catch flaws in some matters, but no man can have an encyclopedic mind which covers in detail the affairs of the universe.

To a degree, then, the President becomes a slave of his environment and his assistants. President Eisenhower attempted to organize a kind of General Staff headed by a Mayor of the Palace, Sherman Adams. It did not work. President Roosevelt tried to manage everything himself which also did not work.

The conclusion must be reached that the Presidency is too responsible, too difficult, too inoperative a position. No other country has any comparable office.

Great Britain has a Queen and a Prime Minister; France a President and a Premier; Soviet Russia a President and a Prime Minister. No country attempts to load down all the primary functions of government on one person.

The most difficult task the President faces always is swift communications. Too much time is wasted going through channels; yet, if everything came directly to the President, he would be overwhelmed.

The Pennsylvania Story

Tight-Rope

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — The Lawrence Administration is somewhat gingerly walking a legislative tight-rope.

On Capitol Hill Administration aides are keeping their fingers crossed. Reason: Just so long as the Legislature remains in session, the threat of trouble in one form or another for the executive branch is a constant, gnawing possibility.

Why? In the first place, it is the legislative branch of Pennsylvania's government that, in effect, holds the magic wand of life or death over the executive branch.

Secondly, as long as the Legislature remains in session it can probe, harass if it so desires, and in general make matters pretty muddy for an administration — or more properly, the executive branch. So far it hasn't been too sticky an affair.

On the other hand once the Legislature adjourns finally, it has lost its breath of life. It can only be recalled by the Governor for a special session and then only consider specific subjects laid out by the Governor—nothing else.

The Legislature cannot "resurrect" itself once it has adjourned. It must wait a year for its regular session—unless of course the Governor reconvenes it in special session.

(The ancient every-other-year schedule was finally eliminated in 1960 when Pennsylvania's voters approved an amendment to the State Constitution that set up annual legislative sessions.)

What is keeping the Lawrence Administration walking a tight-rope is the fact that the Legislature now in session isn't one of those full-blooded "friendly" affairs—that is, a session that can be "in being," without need for fretting on the part of an administration.

In other words, the Administration itself is Democratic; the House of Representatives is quiveringly Democratic — but the State Senate with its even 25-25 split is just about as anti-Administration Republican-controlled as it is Administration-controlled!

And therein lies the tight-rope twister insofar as Administration Democrats on Capitol Hill are concerned.

At almost any time for example, the anti-Administration bloc in the Senate can exercise—and it has already—its own "legislative veto" power and in a stroke nullify Administration-sponsored legislation codified through the Administration-controlled House.

That's one facet. But there is still another even more touchy one insofar as the Lawrence Administration is concerned.

The GOP Senate bloc could, merely by pulling one irritated Democratic vote on its side, authorize an investigation of any department, board or commission of the executive branch. Somewhat in contrast — were there solid Democratic control — is the inescapable fact that the Administration could rest easy, knowing it could head off any such legislative antics.

These facets can be not only "demoralizing" to an administration but also—depending on how they turn out—politically dangerous or even disastrous.

Every move made by the Lawrence Administration becomes suspect as long as the Legislature remains in session. An innocent spark could touch off a hot legislative fire. It's happened before!

(Former Governor Leader faced the same nerve-racking problem but perhaps more so during his first legislative sojourn when both legislative houses were dominated by anti-Administration Republicans.)

Off The Record By Bob Clark

Our Long Pond weather observers have come up with some interesting data regarding the elements the past months.

It is interesting to note that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meckes, the forecasters and statisticians high in the mountains, gathered the information in a stepping-stone manner and came up with records that even such so-called "professionals" couldn't reach a decision on.

For instance our weather observers pointed out that 26 inches of snow fell during April. And the equivalent of water for that period measured 3.64 inches.

During December, 1960, 20 1/2 inches of snow dropped and the water totalled 1.79 inches. In January, 1961, 36 1/2 inches of the white stuff hit the ground and the water hit 3.77.

In February, 21 inches of snow fell making a 3.55 water equivalent, while in March 16 inches of snow came down, totalling 3.42.

With April's 26 inches, Mr. and Mrs. Meckes figure that 120 inches of snow fell in the Long Pond area, measuring 16.17 inches of water for the five-month period.

The Meckes are no novices at the game of forecasters and observers of weather. They have offered data to the Bureau of Water, Bethlehem, Pa.; Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport for 15 years; and New Cumberland (Pa.) Airport for two years.

Information gathered by the Meckes keeps our public informed on what to expect, and what has transpired in the past. Everyone we know loves a weather story whether it be good or bad.

Perhaps we do not take in account the year by year data compiled by individuals in this field. However it is worthwhile information which keeps the lips moving of all persons many times throughout a day.

Much better talking than a conversation concerning war. What do you think?

The Allen-Scott Report

Imponderables In Laos

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington. — One of the most baffling imponderables that U. S. policy makers are confronted with in the desperate Laotian crisis is the almost unbelievable role that oriental mysticism is playing in the fighting there.

Its magic-like influence is shown by the graphic example of how the presence in Luang Prabang of the unburied body of the late King of Laos, Sisavang Vong, kept the Communist-led Pathet Lao forces from attacking the Royal capital for the past 18 months.

Until the cremation ceremony this week, Prince Souphanouvong, the rebel leader, barred an all-out ground and artillery offensive against Luang Prabang for fear it would inflame a majority of Laotians against his Marxist indoctrinated forces. The Laotians, including many of Prince Souphanouvong's own followers, believe that if the sandalwood urn containing the late King's body was damaged or destroyed before it was cremated millions of spirits would spring forth to retaliate against those responsible.

In any attack on the city, there always was a real danger that the king's body would be destroyed in the fighting since it was kept in a gold-spired temple near the headquarters of the commander of all government troops in northern Laos — the major military objective of the rebels in that area.

So strong a deterrent was this religious belief that for weeks U. S. military advisers to the Laotians were able to take troops from the capital and use them to shore up weak positions of the government on other fighting fronts.

The cremation of the king's body, which U. S. officials unsuccessfully tried to postpone until after a cease-fire, has changed all this. It has made Luang Prabang an immediate target of a new rebel offensive.

Capture of this "northern" capital of Laos will give the Pathet Lao a tremendous psychological as well as military victory. In effect, it will give them an almost dictatorial voice over the formation of a coalition government that both sides have proposed as a solution for that Southeast Asian kingdom.

Laotian Army — The failure of the Laotian army to give a good account of itself is due mainly to weaknesses stemming from army personnel policy.

By choosing almost all the officers for its army from the aristocratic Lao tribes, the Laotian government has antagonized the lesser tribes which U. S. and French military advisers consider the best fighters.

The men of those tribes often leave the army with weapons, return to their villages, and simply defy the government to do anything about it.

U. S. military advisers report that the discipline is appalling with officers careful not to hurt enlisted men's feelings. Many Laotian soldiers are in the army for its comparatively high pay, and according to a confidential Defense Department report "Nearly half of the Laotian soldiers are very much averse to fighting." In contrast, there is a long waiting list of applicants for non-fighting jobs in the army.

When the U. S. took over the army's training from the French in 1959, U. S. military officers found the 26,000-man force poorly trained and its dependence on motorized transport made it ill-adapted for guerrilla warfare.

U. S. officers immediately tried to correct this by concentrating their training on two paratroop battalions for airdrop and guerrilla operations. The paratroop battalion under Captain King Le defected with their leader in 1960 after a year of U. S. training and is now fighting with the Pathet Lao against the Boun Oun government. The other battalion is now the mainstay of the Laotian Army.

Other Factors — There are a number of social, ethnic and geographic situations in Laos that are operating against the pro-Western Boun Oun government and for the pro-Soviet Pathet Lao forces.

General C. P. Cabell, the deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, highlighted these problems in a briefing given congressional leaders, reporting:

"Beyond the geographic aspects of the problem in Laos, there are the social, ethnic and political situations which are operating favorably for the Pathet Lao and their guerrilla-type warfare.

"The people of Laos stock make up only about half of the population of the country. These are primarily concentrated in Vientiane and Luang Prabang. The population in other areas are made up largely of hill tribes and ethnic groups who have not yet learned to identify themselves with the central government.

"The common people of Laos, especially those in the villages, are unorganized, superstitious, highly susceptible to rumor, propaganda, and intimidation. The Pathet Lao are systematically killing off loyal Laotian citizens whom they suspect of giving information to the government forces."

Cabell pointed out to the legislators that "geographically, Laos presents an ideal theater of operation from the Communists standpoint. It has 890 miles of northern and eastern border with Communist territory. The supply routes into Laos from Hanoi in North Vietnam and from Dien Bien Phu are considerably better than from the (southern) Laotian Capital, Vientiane."

Inside You And Yours

On Your Rocker

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.

Have you junked a valuable health preserver to make room for mechanized vibrators and infrared heat?

That old-fashioned rocking chair is really a combination exerciser, bone builder, intestinal cleanser and happiness pill. No heated vibrator can make this statement!

If you're too busy or too weak to trot around the block, you can exercise in a rocking chair. You tighten leg muscles to push back, and tense trunk muscles to swing forward.

Without strain, bones feel useless and melt away. Senior citizens confined to bed and chair often feel the aching pains of wasting bones in their hips and spine. On your rocker, stress and strain helps keep bones big and strong!

Circulation Stimulated As leg muscles tighten and relax, they pump extra blood to the legs to the heart. Stretched by all this blood, the heart beats with new vigor. sluggish circulations becomes whirlpools of activity.

Foggy minds clear, as extra oxygen-rich blood gushes to the brain. The rhythmic rocking-horse effect soothes most irritated nerves.

Regular rocking helps regularly. Each bounce and jounce massages new activity into your intestine. The chair supplies natural inner cleanliness.

Rocking massages your lungs, too. Sticky mucus glued to tiny bronchial tubes and little air sacs are thrown loose, so that even a weak cough can clear the passage. You're no longer threatened by that pneumonia which strikes victims who have to lie in bed or sit still day after day.

No Substitute

In warm weather, your rocking chair moves onto the porch where you can enjoy the world and gather all the latest gossip. Heated vibrators are useful, but they're no substitute for an old-fashioned rocker.

The rocking chair is no fountain of youth, but it certainly can be a seat of health!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

S-Burg Approves Street Program

STROUDSBURG Borough Council last night approved a $15,875 street program for this year and authorized application for county aid for the projects.

Included are resurfacing of Second St. at a cost of $3,300; Scott St. from Fifth to Sixth at $1,584; N. Sixth from Scott to Thomas at $550; Thomas St. from Eighth to Ninth at $2,200, and N. 10th St. from Main to Ninth at $2,013.

The program also calls for construction of curbing, grading and surfacing of Lee Ave. from Collins to Bryant Sts. at a cost of $2,504, and Fetherman St. at a cost of $3,724.

Council also authorized notification to property owners on Lee Ave. and Fetherman St. to construct curbs, of which the property owner pays one-half the cost, and directed Borough Manager Harold E. Snyder to advertise for bids for construction of curbs and purchase of necessary materials to be opened at the June 7 meeting.

In other action, Council: Received the report of the Bureau of Correction, State Dept. of Justice, regarding inspection of the local lockup and approved a letter to the bureau advising it that prisoners are housed in Monroe County Jail and the lockup is used only for transients.

Ratifies Authorization
Ratified authorization to Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. for lighting of new parking lot at 721-723 Main St. with installation of one 20,000 lumen mercury vapor lamp and one 4,000 lumen incandescent lamp.

Authorized the burgess and council president to execute an agreement between the borough and Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. covering terms upon which the association agrees to indemnify the borough against loss in the operation of the new parking lot.

Approved the recommendation of the Police Dept. for removal of four parking meters in front of Monroe County Jail and marking three spaces in the area reserved for use of sheriff and police cars.

Heard a report on rehabilitation of the borough shed property which indicates that a new 30 by 60 foot building for storage of equipment can be erected for about $5,000 to $8,000. Borough Engineer Edward C. Hess was directed to inquire as to estimates for steel or concrete black construction.

Highways Employee Injured

A STATE Highways Dept. employee was reported in fair condition at Monroe County General Hospital last night after being struck by a car on Route 115, one mile north of Saylorsburg, at 1:05 p.m. yesterday.

State Police of the local barracks identified him as Lewis P. Henry, 29, Juncodelle, Pa., a member of a survey team. He sustained severe scalp cuts and hip injuries.

Troopers said Henry was struck by a car driven by Eli Serfass, 81, Saylorsburg. Damage to the car was estimated at $5.

Barrett PSEA To Hear Dunlap

MOUNT POCONO—C. Willis Dunlap, supervising principal of the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools, will meet today at 8 p.m. in the Mount Pocono Elementary School with the Barrett Branch, Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Dunlap will explain to the teachers the salary schedule for the jointure that was adopted by the joint school board several months ago.

Liquor License Is Suspended

THE STATE Liquor Control Board yesterday suspended the license of Edward G. Husosky, Rimrock Lodge, Tobyhanna Road, Gouldsboro, for 50 days, citing sales on Sunday.

The suspension is effective as of last Saturday.

Following his inauguration in 1801, Thomas Jefferson walked from the Capitol to his boarding house nearby. There he ate lunch, in his usual place at the foot of a table for 30.

Clayton W. Bernhardt, chairman of the fund-raising committee, explained that thousands of hours have gone into preparations for the campaign and urged that each member contribute as much as possible so the entire $1,600,000 could be subscribed.

Co-Chairmen
Dr. C. W. Dupee and William Walters are co-chairmen of the drive in Monroe County. Similar drives are being carried out in the 41 other sections served by the Lehigh Consistory.

William H. A. Williams, executive secretary, outlined the need for a new building to accommodate the large membership, which has outgrown the present quarters in the Allentown Masonic Temple. At present, he said, the Consistory has 8,332 members, more than double the 4,400 who belonged only 15 years ago.

"We must have the facilities to go with the fine fellowship that has brought about our phenomenal growth," Williams said.

The Consistory does not plan to use any of the $800,000 in its building fund toward defraying the cost of the new cathedral, Williams said. Rather, it hopes to use the returns on the investment for the maintenance and operation of the cathedral.

John S. Cole, commander-in-chief of the Consistory, introduced the program. Among those he presented to the audience were M. S. Baldwin, his representative in Monroe County, and B. K. Williams, a 33rd degree Mason. The program was followed by entertainment.

Consistory Plans New Cathedral
LEHIGH Consistory unveiled preliminary plans for building a new Scottish Rite Cathedral at a dinner for 200 Monroe County members and guests at Pocono Manor Inn last night.

The $1,600,000 building will be erected just south of Allentown on a 12-acre plot located between Cedar Crest Boulevard and the Lehigh Country Club.

As now planned, the new cathedral will be one story high and modeled along lines of the Scottish Rite Cathedral in Harrisburg. It will contain a banquet hall seating 1,000 persons, a professional-type stage and a 1,500-seat auditorium, a large kitchen, Consistory offices and a spacious lobby.

Clayton W. Bernhardt, chairman of the fund-raising committee, explained that thousands of hours have gone into preparations for the campaign and urged that each member contribute as much as possible so the entire $1,600,000 could be subscribed.

Red Cross Troubled Over Drive Failure

THE MONROE County Chapter, American Red Cross, is concerned because of the failure in reaching the quota of $20,000 for this year's campaign.

To date only $11,734.13 has been subscribed and this means that the chapter will not be able to carry out charter obligations in proper order. Services to servicemen, veterans, civilian, disaster and blood campaigns will have to be curtailed, chapter officials said.

The Red Cross Chapter urges that anyone not contacted in house-to-house canvass send their contributions direct to Red Cross Headquarters. Recipients of special gift letters are asked to send in their checks for contribution pledges as soon as possible.

The 1961 campaign theme, "Good Things Happen When You Help," epitomizes the work of the Red Cross — humanity in action the world over. Following is a breakdown by divisions, showing the amounts raised in the campaign.

Stroudsburg $396.64, East Stroudsburg $278.34, Barrett $180.00, Stroud $773.65, Coolbaugh $42.36, Smithfield $449.70, Paradise $441.64, Hamilton $72.50, Chestnut Hill $6.00, Delaware Water Gap $240.65, Eldred $27.65, Pocono $28.50, Mt. Pocono $12.00, Tobyhanna $94.00, Middle Smithfield $103.50, Ross $2.00, Poik $32.00, Jackson $5.00, Tunkhannock $0.00, Price $0.00, Total $11,734.13.

"Red Cross needs your help, now and in the years to come so that it can continue to do its job effectively," chapter officials said. "Since the end of World War II the nation's population has increased by more than 25 million. New communities have been created. New suburban developments have spread outward from hundreds of cities and towns.

"This mushrooming growth demands a continuing extension of Red Cross services to thousands of new families. Send your contribution today. Help the Monroe County Chapter American Red Cross to have the funds it needs to do the work it must do. Mail or take to the headquarters, N. Seventh St., Stroudsburg."

Prospects Good

House Of The Week

Two Good Ways To Enjoy Vacation Living

Editor's Note: Today's House of the Week is a two-plan special on vacation homes. Two different architects provide their individual solutions to the problem of designing an economical home away from home that can be expanded as family and income grow. The "baby blueprint" Study Plan always available with House of the Week contains architect's elevations, condensed materials lists, and enlarged pictures of both these designs.

By DAVID L. BOWEN

THE "new frontier" in housing during the '60s may turn out to be a mushrooming of summer homes.

With rising population, the trend toward a shorter work week, longer vacations and increased spending on recreation, more and more Americans seem to be finding some way to start construction on a home at lake or seaside.

Since fresh air never hurt anyone, it's pretty hard to go wrong on a summer house. Even a tent can provide the rudimentary shelter required to keep off the rain. Most families, however, require more than protection from the weather to enjoy nature's wonders. The problem becomes one of finding a compromise between luxury you can afford and expense rivaling that of a full-fledged year-around house.

Two choices are offered in these House of the Week designs. In B-62, designed by Architect Rudolph A. Matern, the basic plan with one cabana-bedroom covers 856 square feet. In B-63, designed by Architect Herman H. York, the basic house is a single large room of only 384 square feet. Addition of sleeping rooms adds 232 square feet to bring the total to 616 square feet.

Shipshape B-62

In the home designed by Architect Matern, an indefinite number of cabana-bedrooms can be added to the original structure as desired. Each one increases the living area by 232 square feet. The first addition would include a second bathroom.

A dramatic highlight of Matern's B-62 is the prow-shaped lounge area with a big glass area giving a panoramic view. A fireplace located at the tip of the "prow" serves both indoors and out; it's a hearth in the inside, a barbecue on the outside.

The garage is large enough to house a 22-foot boat during the winter and has lockers specially designed to accommodate fishing poles, oars, outboard motor, life jackets, rope, sails and similar gear.

In the lounge, the design features a compact kitchen with bar cabinet and bar, food locker and a wealth of special storage facilities. Vertical boards and glass are the dominant exterior materials. A promenade deck stretches across the front and down one side.

Butterfly-Roofed B-63

The home designed by Architect York is smaller, less elaborate and consequently would cost less money to build. Its basic unit is a large room 16 feet by 24 feet with complete kitchen, living and bath facilities. A partially covered sun deck runs across the entire front. The stone fireplace wall includes an indoor hearth and a porch barbecue.

When desired, the owner can add a sleeping room section at the back 9 3/4 feet deep by 24 feet wide, gaining two bedrooms.

The house is built on piers making it easy to construct the house on lots with varying slopes by simply lengthening piers in the low sections.

Blueprints of these homes available at The Daily Record Office. See coupon below.

WISH YOU WERE HERE—There's little maintenance required to keep this handsome summer cabin looking trim and shipshape. For B-62, Architect Rudolph A. Matern used vertical boards, concrete blocks and big glass areas to create a distinctive pattern.

B-62 FLOOR PLAN—Room arrangement and special features were designed to fulfill the heart's desire of every swimmer, fisherman, boating enthusiast and entertainer. V-shape of the lounge allows a wide, unrestricted view. Area of basic house is 856, each extra cabana-bedrooms adds 232 square feet.

New Room Air Conditioner

JUST a few years ago most everyone would have chuckled heartily at the idea that humans one day would be able to control weather at the push of a button or the flick of a switch.

Today that's just what a modern electric room air conditioner provides — fingertip weather control all summer long. All the laughing now is being done by happy families enjoying complete comfort in rooms equipped with air conditioning units.

Modern room air conditioners do more than just cool the air. Here are some of the other important benefits they provide:

Dry air. Room air is scientifically dehumidified, doing away with damp discomfort and the annoyance of clinging clothes.

Filter - pure air. Room air passes through filters that remove dust, dirt, soot, smoke, pollen and lint. Allergy sufferers feel better, and walls, furniture, floors, curtains, and draperies stay cleaner longer, resulting in less housework.

Movable grilles or deflectors. Today's room air conditioning units are designed to permit air flow to be shifted in any direction, resulting in complete comfort control in any portion of the room.

More quiet, more relaxation. With a room air conditioner in operation, windows are kept closed against outside noises—ideal for older people, invalids, and children napping. Dispositions are better throughout the entire family when nerve-fangling noises are blocked out. Today's room air conditioners contribute to the quiet and relaxation by operating almost silently.

Year-around fresh air. On cooler days the unit can be operated without cooling. Air is filtered, freshened, and circulated throughout the room. This is an especially valuable feature at parties.

Better appetites. Summer appetites perk up magically when a home is equipped with room air conditioners. Children feel like eating the food so necessary to their health and good growth, and adults are less inclined to turn up their noses at foods they need to maintain health and energy.

SETTING FOR SUMMER FUN—A low-sloping butterfly room with large front deck set the modern tone of the graceful summer house designed by Architect Herman H. York. In B-63, the exterior materials are a small amount of stonework and vertical boards in redwood, cedar or pine.

DECK PRACTICAL

One of the most popular ways to gain space inexpensively in leisure home building is construction of a sizeable deck that can be used for lounging and as a sleeping porch, enclosed as the budget permits.

Kitchen Colors Brighten Tasks Of Homemaker

TODAY'S trend in kitchen decorating is to add a few tasteful furbelows to functional equipment. Warm wood finishes combined with bright colors, and patterned papers and curtains lighten the homemaker's work load psychologically just as modern electric appliances lighten it literally.

New colors and designs available in electric appliances help kitchen designers and homemakers integrate mechanical labor savers with the rest of the kitchen decor.

Consider automatic dishwashers, for instance. Today's electric dishwashers are available in many colors, to match or blend with the kitchen's color scheme. Beside the traditional white, stock finishes include yellow, turquoise, pink, copper, brushed chrome, and wood.

If none of the stock finishes is quite right with the kitchen colors, the appliance dealer can have a dishwasher custom-painted, or the home owner can decorate his own dishwasher with removable door panels that come in various colors.

Foreign Aid Seen Not Club To Force Imitation Of U.S.

By JIM OTTAWAY JR.
Daily Record Special Reporter
OUR FOREIGN aid is not intended to force other nations to adopt the American way of life. And yet, their failure to do so is one of the causes of popular disenchantment with our $4 billion foreign aid program, according to government officials who spoke to newspapermen at a background briefing in Washington last week.

"It is not reasonable for us to expect other nations to imitate us," said one administration official.

The purpose of foreign aid is rather to make new nations strong enough to do things their way, safely and successfully, said another top ranking official.

This foreign aid policy leads to another unpopular aspect of our aid programs: the gift of millions of dollars to dictatorships and other totalitarian governments.

Will Have To Abide
Government officials feel that we will have to put up with this for some time.

New nations want freedom more than democracy, and there are many reasons why we cannot expect representative government right away. The prerequisites for full-fledged democracy, like education, economic stability, and political experience, simply do not exist in countries born since World War II.

This policy of the new administration, while it reduces the definition of "the free world" from an alliance of democratic nations to nations free from Sino-Soviet domination, is closer to the political facts of the world today than the popular demand for de-mocracies like the United States.

The Kennedy administration is realistically trying to save small countries from communism before it sets out to remake them in our own image.

But Kennedy himself is not complacent about American unrest with our totalitarian allies.

Red China Faces Food Shortages

TOKYO (AP) — Red China faces the threat of new calamities less than a year after the worst natural disasters of the century caused severe shortages of food for its 650 million people.

The official New China news agency said yesterday China has been hit by a spring drought in the northeast and east central areas, a series of hailstorms in the southeast and floods in the south.

The Peiping regime already has been forced to go on the world market for food, placing huge orders with Canada and Australia.

The New China report said a bitter dry spell persists in coastal Shantung Province in northeast China, where the Yellow River empties into the sea, and neighboring Hopei Province.

The agency gave no figures on the acreage affected by drought, flood and hailstorms.

who are unresponsive to the demands of progress. In his foreign aid message to Congress March 22, Kennedy said that one of the requirements for foreign aid should be tax reform, land reform, improved education and social justice at the initiative of the recipient nation.

Difficulty Emphasized
The difficulty of sending our ideas abroad with our dollars was emphasized by a government official who said that it is difficult to train foreign nationals in democratic ideological warfare.

By its definition, democracy does not have a central, absolute, brutal idea which can be drummed into guerrilla warriors as the communist ideology can be.

In Laos particularly, we have run into the insoluble question: What makes people fight?

As one speaker at the background briefing put it, loyal Laotians have no personal involvement in the fight against communist infiltration. They don't understand what the struggle is all about.

"We tried to turn the Laotians into battling Turks, but they would rather sit by the Mekong with their arm around a girl and watch the river go by," said one official.

When drawn together, these expressions of general policy add up to this: We will fight first to combat the spread of communism and second to spread the practice of democracy. Until the countries we are helping with foreign aid are independent and strong they cannot begin to think about setting up representative governments of some kind.

Solon Proposes Property Auction

HARRISBURG (AP) — Rep. James A. O'Donnell, D-Northampton, proposed Wednesday that the state auction off its New Street Bridge and Minisi Trail Street property.

He introduced two bills to authorize sale of the property.

The New Street property, about one-tenth of an acre, includes the toll house and other structures. The Minisi Trail tract is slightly smaller.

Mother Of Year Gives Advice

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A successful mother must love her children enough to let them become adults with no strings attached, Pennsylvania's mother of the year said yesterday.

Dr. Emily Hartshorne Mudd, a marriage counselor and University of Pennsylvania medical school professor, said that raising children into independent adults is one of the prime responsibilities of motherhood and one of its greatest satisfactions.

Dr. Mudd was selected for the mother of the year honor by the Pennsylvania Mothers Committee. She is one of the founders and is now the executive director of the Marriage Council of Philadelphia.

She is also professor of family study in psychiatry at Penn's medical school and director of the division of family study and marriage counseling at the university.

Stroud Union Band Concert Is Saturday

THE ANNUAL Spring band concert of Stroud Union High School Band, will be held Saturday night. It will feature various individuals and sections of the band. The percussion section, notably Gretchen Wyckoff and a woodwind choir will be spotlighted during the course of the program.

Miss Wyckoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wyckoff, a sophomore in Stroud Union High School, and a young lady active in many high school musical organizations — both instrumentally and vocally — will personify "The Worried Drummer" in a novelty number in which one drummer plays all the percussion parts: tympani, snare drum, bass drum, cymbals, and what have you.

Quotes Gretchen, "Can you think of a better title?"

In LeRoy Anderson's "Sandpaper Ballet," Charles Cahn, Deanna Fulk, and Mary Jane Gilpin, also of the percussion section, will have an opportunity to be featured.

Miller Memorial

"Five Mellow Winds," a piece dedicated to the memory of the late Glenn Miller features a woodwind choir consisting of Joan Besecker, Sandra Trethway, Douglas Williams, Nancy Altomose, and Howard Denker. This composition is written in the style of the Miller band and will prove to be quite nostalgic to members of the audience who remember this top notch band in an era of top notch bands. The concert band serves as accompanist to these before mentioned soloists and solo groups.

The entire group will be heard in several marches, the "First Suite in Eb for Band," by the famous English composer of concert band music, Gustav Holst, the "Colonial Rhapsody," a medley of Revolutionary War tunes, and music from "Sound of Music," the Rodgers-Hammerstein show currently on Broadway.

The concert will be held in the Stroud Union High School gymnasium starting at 8 p.m. Tickets are being sold by band members.

Says Ousted Veep Had No Part In Fix

WASHINGTON (AP) — William S. Ginn, ousted vice president of General Electric, testified yesterday that board chairman Ralph J. Cordiner took no part in the illegal price fixing that put Ginn in jail.

In fact, Ginn said, he stopped price fixing after Cordiner laid down the law to him in a face-to-face meeting.

Ginn, the most heavily sentenced executive in the government's recent antitrust case, also told senators that the former GE president, Robert Paxton, had no responsibility for the company's secret meetings with competitors.

Instead, Ginn put most of the responsibility on Henry V. Erben, once executive vice president of General Electric.

Paxton, who retired in January, will testify Wednesday before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee. Cordiner, now president as well as GE board chairman, will testify later in the hearings. Erben is dead.

The subcommittee is trying to find out if price fixing was even more extensive than revealed by the recent antitrust case.

In that case, a U.S. District Court judge in Philadelphia fined 29 electrical equipment manufacturers and 45 company officials nearly $2 million after they pleaded guilty or no contest to federal charges of price fixing.

In addition, the judge sentenced seven of the officials to 30 days in jail. Ginn, fined $12,500, was one of the seven. GE then dismissed him from his $135,000-a-year job as vice president.

Two Americans To Be Hanged

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Two American drifters convicted of slaying a Florida charter boat captain who tried to aid them while they were shipwrecked were sentenced yesterday to be hanged on May 9.

Bahamian authorities set the execution date for Billy Wayne Sees, 23, of Otawah, Ark., and Alvin Table, 25, of Torrence, Calif., after their appeal to the privy council in London was turned down.

Table and Sees were involved in the fatal shooting of Capt. Angus Boatwright, 56, of the Florida Keys town of Islamorada. He died aboard his 36-foot cabin cruiser Muriel III just off Elbow Cay in Bahamian waters, on April 23, 1960.

Elementary Concert In Eastburg

EAST STROUDSBURG Area Elementary Schools will hold a spring concert of band and choral music Friday at 8 p.m. in the J. M. Hill School.

Music supervisor, Clement Wiedmeyer, has planned a band program that ranges from a flutophone ensemble to a full band playing Marches and overtures.

Also within the band program will be student soloist John Farmer on the trumpet, and a Calypso band featuring Debra Seems, Debbie Sheppes, Norma Schoonover, Jacklynn Vollers, and Bob Staples.

There are 82 members in the elementary band from all the elementary schools in the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School District.

The choral part of the program will feature 185 young voices presented, a Boys' Chorus, Sixth Grade Ensemble, Girls' Chorus and a Mixed Chorus.

Included in the music for the choral portion of the program are Spirituals, Calypso, Folk Tunes and Ballads.

Marguerite Cramer and Alma Sutton are directing the choral portion of the Elementary Spring Concert.

The program is supervised by Mrs. Pauline Peterson, Supervisor of Elementary Education in the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School District.

Vacationland Unit To Hold Fete May 25

JOSEPH J. Horan, director of the Travel Bureau of the New York State Department of Commerce, and chairman of the Board of the National Association of Travel Organizations (NATO), will be the speaker at the Pocono Vacationland Association's annual banquet to be held May 25 at Onawa Lodge, Mountainhome.

Horan has held his present position since 1946, and he was president of NATO in 1958-1959. In 1960 he was elected chairman of the board. He was honored with an appointment as a member of the President's Advisory Committee on the Travel USA Program.

His other offices include executive secretary of the New York State Winter Sports Council, chairman of ASTA Committee on Domestic Travel Organizations, and membership in Sigma Delta Chi, honorary professional journalism society.

His editorial work includes preparation of "New York State Vacationlands" which was awarded first prize in a national contest for travel promotion booklets.

Horan is well-known in travel promotion circles, and enjoys international renown as a public speaker on travel and vacation topics. He will talk on "State Promotion" and will point up to his audience the importance of the visitor to a resort area such as the Poconos.

The Vacationland Association banquet will be open to local businessmen, members of the press, invited guests, and everyone interested in the Pocono Mountains.

Pocono Scout Units Set To Take Part In Cavalcade

SEVEN events at the second annual Cavalcade of Scouting will feature Pocono units. The Scout Show will be held at the Blue Valley Farm Show building on May 19 and 20.

Four of the booths in the Scouting Fair portion will be manned by Pocono units. They are Troop 81 of East Stroudsburg Methodist; Pack 89 and Troop 89 Pocono Mt. Rotary Club, Barrett Township; and Pack 301 Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Chestnut Hill Township.

Participating in the Pinewood Derby will be Pack 84, Cherry Valley Methodist Church, Pack 89 and Pack 301.

Scout Executive Morgan said that a number of additional units which plan to participate in the big show, have not submitted participation applications.

Bangor Elks To Revive Minstrels

BANGOR—After an absence of 20 years, the Elks minstrels are being revived and a dress rehearsal Wednesday night in the Bangor High School auditorium, will put the finishing touches to the show slated for Friday and Saturday nights at 8 o'clock.

While over the years the Elks have been the prime movers of the favorite minstrels, the show actually was born in 1904 in the former Gould's Drug Store where a group of the town's youth conceived the idea.

Among the endmen in that first show 57 years ago was George I. Godshalk, now the president of Flory Milling Co. He is the only original endman from the group of six. Later, others filled in the roles and Robert Davies, now of Florida, and Jack Albert, Bangor, took over the interlocutor reins.

For many years the Elks minstrels were staged in the old Music Hall, and remained there until just before World War 2, when they were discontinued.

Two months ago the Elks decided to revive the minstrels, and named Warren Kresler as show director and interlocutor, and his brother, Carl, as musical director and pianist. Both have previous show business experience, Warren having traveled as a magician in vaudeville days, and Carl as pianist with Bernie Parson's orchestra.

Selected as endmen for this weekend's show were Nelo Maso, Robert Saltern, Roger Williams, who performed in the role before World War 2, and James B. Gaffney.

From the vocal talent in the State Belt the Elks built a chorus of 30 male voices, and are featuring soloists Denny

Harris, Robert Roberts and Edward Avery.

Ralph Romano, 17-year-old accordionist, who recently was a winner on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour, will be featured and will accompany a vocal trio of Paul Dodd, Willard Hendershot and George Roberts. The well-known Apollo Quartet, George and Donald Shook, Robert Albert and Gordon Roberts, with Robert Miller as pianist, also are among the show features.

Surprise Act

Seen in a surprise act will be Sherwood Holland and John Dorsey, and a trio of Bangor High School football stars, Terry Brodt, Denny Holland and Bob Owens form the youngest members of the minstrel troupe.

Bert Seal's orchestra will play the show through permission from Local 577, American Federation of Musicians, and James Drury will be at the organ console, accompanying pianist Carl Kresler.

Proceeds from the show will go to the Elks bowling commit-

Post Quits Mt. Pocono Police Job

MT. POCONO — Mt. Pocono Borough Council accepted the resignation of Chief of Police William Post at a meeting here Tuesday night.

No successor was named to fill the vacancy. However, council appointed a special patrolman. He is Kenneth Miller.

In other action, council agreed to reward and repaint borough signs on Route 611, and the secretary was given permission to award issue building permits.

The budget report for the month of April showed expenditures for government, $185.50; protection of property, $558.99; garbage collection, $194.14; highways, $164.90; and social security, $71.27.

Scouts Over 14 Are Eligible

BOY SCOUTS in Monroe County over 14 and wishing to make the trip to Philmont Scout Ranch, N. Mex. should contact their scoutmaster or myself, Harry Rider said last night.

The scouts will leave for the ranch June 17.

WE'VE LISTENED to the experts. Now it's time to hear from you — the teen-ager presently in high school — on the subject of whether you're getting a good education.

You can hear educators and politicians compare this country's schools with the European and Russian. And almost every adult has opinions about whether schools are better now than they used to be and how instruction can be improved.

But what is YOUR opinion of the education YOU are getting for the needs of YOUR own life in YOUR school?

Do you agree with the 971 teen-agers who answered that question for us recently?

Eighty per cent of them said they are satisfied with the education they are getting.

"We have superior instructors in most cases," said Mickey Moucha, 17, Oakland, Minn., in typical fashion, "and most teachers demand top performance in class."

But also there were criticisms of schools and some concrete suggestions for improvement.

Improvements Suggested
Both Mary Himele, 16, of Louisville, and Melvin Kline, 15, of Philadelphia, told us instruction in their schools is aimed at the level of slower students.

"Certain classes could be separated as to abilities so that the better students are not held back and the slow students pushed," proposed by a Nebraskan, John Russell, 17.

Joan Liebel, 16, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., said, "I'm sure a course in fast reading could prove invaluable."

Other recommendations:
"Better advice for college preparation," said Ernie, 17, Bridgeport, Conn.: "more discipline," Sally Pickbalm, 18, Vermillion, S. D.: "more equipment in science labs; tape recording booths in foreign language classes," Ron Steinbach, 17, Austin,

Should Homework Be Abolished? Not If Teen-Agers Have A Say

MOST teen-agers say no to the easy way out.

Minn.: "more gym equipment," Penny Nickle, 17, Buffalo, N.Y.

If you think most teenagers are happy with their schools because they are breezing through, consider their replies to our questions about easy courses and homework.

Far from rushing into a schedule full of "snaps," 68 percent of the boys and 76 percent of the girls asserted they aren't enrolled in even one.

And surprisingly enough, an even greater percent — 87 percent of the boys and 84 percent of the girls — said NO! when asked whether they think homework should be abolished.

Less than a fourth of the teen-agers think snap courses are often found in the curriculum. Mary Connors, 16, Vermillion, S. D., told us her school doesn't have any. Charles Bishop, 17, Camden, N.Y., said, "We have good teachers who are hard for our benefit."

Homework Supported
Fred Madonia, 16, St. Louis, one of the majority willing to continue hard work on his subjects after school, said:

"You get more out of it if you study by yourself."

Other homework boosters said: "Like any sport you have to practice until you are good," Dennis Lemley, 16, Cheektowaga, N.Y.

"Homework gives the student an opportunity to develop skills and use his knowledge to solve problems," Shari Colton, 17, Grand Island, Neb.

"It helps us think and realize what we don't understand," Wanda Strong, 16, Canandaigua, N.Y. But, as student and ex-student know, everybody isn't crazy about homework.

Alice Boruch, 16, Bayonne, N.J., voiced the familiar complaint that she has too much.

And 54 percent of our question answers don't find their homework especially stimulating.

Candy Cafer, 16, Louisville, Ky., suggests that homework would be improved if it differed in content from daily classwork. Sigmund Ozdman, 15, Philadelphia, Pa., would substitute problems requiring ly conceived" military action. "I assume our military advisers are involved there, unless the CIA is involved in military strategy," Church added.

"Communism can't be shot down in Latin America," he said. "It must be shown up, and this should be the object of our policy."

"But when a resort to arms was taken in Cuba, then the error was compounded by allowing a corporal's guard to attempt in army's work."

Dulles testified in closed session for an hour and 45 minutes. Then Bissell, who reportedly played a major role for the CIA in the invasion attempt, was interrogated for nearly two more hours.

While Dulles was supposed to have been questioned about the CIA's operations around the world, Fulbright said afterwards the questioning was confined almost exclusively to Cuba.

Invasion Of Cuba Was Vast Mistake

WASHINGTON (AP) — After two days of hearings on the U.S. role in the abortive Cuban invasion, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said yesterday the operation as a whole was a mistake for which there was a "collective responsibility."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he meant the responsibility of the White House, the Defense Department, the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department.

President Kennedy has said that as chief executive he shoulders responsibility for U.S. involvement. Fulbright made his comments to newsmen after his committee spent about four hours questioning CIA officials, including Director Allen W. Dulles and Richard M. Bissell Jr., deputy director for plans. The Latin-American subcommittee of the parent committee heard Secretary of State Dean Rusk Monday behind closed doors.

Fulbright said he wouldn't foreclose the possibility of further hearings. He said it would be up to the committee to decide whether to call in military leaders for questioning.

Before the committee chairman spoke, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told newsmen the ill-fated Cuban invasion was a "poor-ing thought and logic for too much memorization and copying.

Several students who would go farther and abolish homework are sure they could get more done during class hours if they really applied themselves. They felt a better use of after-school time would be to watch educational television, read books and newspapers and pursue independent projects.

George Kasper, 18, Bridgeport, Conn., and Lee E. Morris, 16, Philadelphia, summed up the thinking of most of the teen-agers we talked with.

George said he is sure his school is doing a good job of educating, "but the student must want an education to get something good from it."

Lee added, "There is no shortcut to learning. Hard study is the only way."

Plans New Climb

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—An Indian expedition that failed last week to conquer the as yet unsealed Annapurna III in the Himalayas plans another assault May 6. The group was within 500 feet of the 24,868-foot summit when bad weather forced it back.

'Kick The Meter'

OTTAWA (AP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton gave this word-of-mouth advice to a motorist perturbed over a balky parking meter: "Kick it." The mayor said she had gotten double time for her nickel by that method and had had similar success with a pay telephone.

Fidel, Others Receive Lenin Peace Prize

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union conferred 1960 Lenin Peace prizes yesterday on Cuba's Fidel Castro, Pr sident Sekou Toure of Guinea and five others, including an Indian woman who once led a campaign against a U.S.-Pakistan military pact.

The awards, made annually on the eve of the Soviet Union's giant May Day celebrations, hailed Castro as "public leader and statesman of the Cuban republic, whose entire life is dedicated to the noble cause of the struggle of the peoples for freedom and independence."

"Without sparing his strength or very life, Fidel Castro did everything to rally the people of Cuba to the struggle against the reactionary regime of dictator Batista," the citation said.

"This courageous struggle was crowned with the complete victory of the people."

The other awards winners are: Mrs. Rameshwari Nehru, a disciple of Gandhi and Indian peace movement leader; Mikhail Sadov-eanu, Romanian writer; Antoine Georges Tabet, a Lebanese architect; Ostad Dlusski, a Polish Communist who helped found the World Peace Council; and William Morrow, Australian labor figure.

Mrs. Nehru is said to be a distant relative of India's Prime Minister Nehru. She has been active in Communist affairs. In 1954 she was made chairman of a committee of Indians named to oppose the U.S. military pact with Pakistan.

The committee's Castro citation said "The government led by Castro has carried out a number of deep progressive reforms. 'Everything for the people' has become the slogan of the new Cuba."

PNPA Parley In Bermuda

HARRISBURG (AP)—Members of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association are flying to Bermuda for this summer's annual conference.

An announcement from state headquarters Wednesday said the conference would be held June 22-26 in Hamilton, Bermuda, with about 100 newspaper executives, members of their families and guests, expected to attend.

A publisher-management problem clinic will be conducted by PNPA President James M. Driscoll of the Connelville Courier, and William E. Strasburg, PNPA vice president and publisher of Ambler Gazette.

SO MUCH THAT CAN'T BE COPIED

Bucket seats alone do not a sport car make. Even when they're as cozy as ours are. You also want (and darned well need, if you're after a fun-type car) things like efficiently eager steering. Steering like you get with Corvair's rear-engine design.

You want traction that keeps your car firmly attached to the road all the time—around corners, through mudholes, everywhere. You want superlatively balanced braking. You want an amiably smooth, supple ride—like Corvair's full independent suspension gives you.

As you might have guessed, you simply can't get these happy advantages in any other U.S. car. Only Corvair. Anything that gives you less is just another social climber.

Okays Police Force Increase

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Senate Senate Committee yesterday approved and sent to the floor for a vote a bill to increase the state police force by 200 men in the next two years.

The measure, backed by Gov. Lawrence, would increase the authorized size of the organization from 1,900 to 2,000 men this year and to 2,100 men in 1962. It's a part of the governor's plan for expanded highway safety.

Barrett Concert Friday

CRESO — Russell Spelcher, music instructor for Barrett Township School, announced last night the annual Spring concert will be held Friday at 8 p. m. in the school here.

Members of the elementary chorus, from Grades Four through Six, will sing folk songs. The senior high girls' chorus of 30 voices will sing selections from the Broadway musical, "Sound of Music." The group will also present a novelty number, "The Little Worm."

Featured soloist is Miss Nancy Keller, a junior. A duet will be presented by Bonita and Rosemary Garri.

Proceeds will go toward awards and to purchase music for the groups.

Jailkeeper Is Locked Up

CAMPOBASSI, Italy (AP)—Jailkeeper Elio Padula hardly ever locked up anyone in this peaceful village but he asked for a raise in pay anyway.

The Town Council turned him down. Police said Padula blamed Town Secretary Mario Calabrese for the rejection and stabbed him, wounding the official critically.

Padula is locked up in one of his own jail cells.

Mathematics Teachers Elect Fritz

JERROLD Fritz, East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools, was elected president of the Monroe County Council of Teachers of Mathematics at a meeting held Tuesday in conjunction with the 11th annual county-wide mathematics tournament.

Other officers are Ronald Davis, Tobyhanna, vice president; Miss Julia Sieg, Stroudsburg, treasurer; Stanley Mick, Stroudsburg, secretary, and Lester Dimmick and Bernard Franz, both of East Stroudsburg, auditors.

The possibility of holding the contest next year at the new Pocono Mountains Joint High School was discussed, but no action was taken.

Plans to rotate the tournament among participating schools in future years were also discussed.

Eichmann May Summon 4 Ex-Nazis

JERUSALEM (AP)—The defense counsel for Adolf Eichmann fought yesterday for the right to summon four ex-Nazis to testify that Eichmann was only an insignificant piece of Nazi Germany's organization for exterminating millions of Jews.

Dr. Robert Servatius' legal arguments — which appear likely to be rejected — came as almost a relief in another day of testimony about Nazi cruelties in Poland. Photographs taken in a Jewish ghetto under the Nazis and buried until after the war were introduced in evidence. One witness testified that a guard dog ripped flesh from a woman boarding a deportation train.

After Servatius named his prospective witnesses, Israeli prosecutor Gideon Hausner said every one of them would be arrested if they set foot in Israel.

Servatius applied to the three-judge Israeli court for permission to summon these former Nazi figures:

Former SS (storm trooper) Maj. Gen. Franz A. Six, onetime department head in Hitler's Reich Security Office. Sentenced to 20 years in prison as a war criminal at the Nuernberg trials of 1946, he was later freed and now lives in West Germany.

Dr. Max Merlon, former Nazi governor of Salonika, Greece, sentenced to 20 years in prison by a Greek war crimes court, later freed and now a West Berlin lawyer.

Former SS Maj. Hermann Krueney, an Eichmann deputy in Nazi-occupied Hungary, now a prisoner in West Germany awaiting outcome of an inquiry into his activities at the extermination camp of Auschwitz.

The court said it would hand down a formal decision Wednesday.

Dr. Max Merlon, former Nazi governor of Salonika, Greece,

Conspirators Freed From Jail

HARRISBURG (AP)—Two men convicted of false pretenses and conspiracy in connection with cinders sales to the state Highway Department Wednesday were paroled from prison after serving seven weeks of a three-to-six-month sentence.

Ronald J. Sell, 45, Beaver, and Charles E. Falt, 48, Greensburg, both former assistant county highways superintendents, were released by Dauphin County Court Judge Homer L. Kreider to serve out the balance of their maximum terms on probation.

Sell, Falt and Frank J. Petrosky, Greensburg cinders supplier, were convicted April 7, 1959 after a trial before Kreider. Their sentences were stayed until last March 13 because of unsuccessful appeals to the state Superior and Supreme courts.

How To Use Water To

END YOUR CONSTIPATION WORRIES

Here's how to get to the root of your constipation problem. Bring enough moisture to your lower colon every day. When food wastes are normally moistened, they will "move" as they should.

So do this. Take SERUTAN every day with plenty of water. SERUTAN is a pure vegetable gel that carries and holds water in your lower digestive tract to promote more normal regularity.

SERUTAN provides the proper moisture, bulk and peristaltic action to help keep you regular. This is utterly different from harsh chemical laxatives which may dry you out.

Get SERUTAN. Take as directed and enjoy daily regularity or money back from the maker.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

More alarming than the shrinking of the universe in space shots, of the world in distance and in common entanglements, is the shrinking personal world of those in their middle years. As, one by one, the figures which loomed so large in the community, people whose opinions you respected, whose actions and disposition you admired, vanish.

To have two such men die within the same hour: Dr. Charles Flagler and Howard Rockefeller, seems more than a deep personal loss, as if the whole community was somehow less large. And the feeling has nothing to do with numbers.

It's the stature you miss. Actually there are young people coming up and growing into perhaps as heroic a mold but meanwhile the world seems mighty empty. And in the case of physicians, there'd better be a lot of young ones coming on pretty fast or the ones we still have will all be dropping in their tracks.

But speaking of the world moving on, it's interesting to note that the Junior Woman's Club has chosen the Sheltered Workshop as their project for next year. The Stroud Community Club, which contributed 75 percent of its welfare fund to the proposed shelter and has chosen it as one of its major projects for next year.

With these two lively groups behind it, things really should begin to move. New projects are popping up all over the place. The Grange in Tannersville is talking about a kindergarten. The women in Wooddale are promoting stained glass windows for the church.

With the pressure of events, both the Junior Woman's Club and the Seniors are carrying their activities over into Summer. Summer courses for high school students in grammar and reading are being promoted.

At the present moment, seems as if we might as well keep right on working since the weather holds no promise of warming up enough for outdoor activities. Sickest looking forsythia I've seen for many a year.

Spring Activities For Laurel Troop

Newfoundland — A variety of activities has been a part of the schedule for the girl scouts of Laurel Troop One during the month of April.

In connection with their community service work, the scouts held an Easter Egg Hunt for the pre-school, and first, second and third graders. A number of scouts took a trip to Scranton to see the picture, "Windjammer." The troop was welcomed and showed around the new post office in Newfoundland by Postmasters Mr. and Mrs. Clair Beecker. And on Founder's Day, the Bluejeans Patrol received their Girl Scout pins, including Shirley Bronson, Gall Butler, Jean Ann Nolan, Melissa Burdick and Sally Fitz.

Mrs. Robert March is scout leader for Laurel Troop. Plans for May and June include cook-outs and camping, as well as other activities.

Mrs. Michael John DeVito (Apollo)

Miss Carmella Schiavone Bride Of M. J. DeVito

Bangor — Miss Carmella Joan Schiavone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Schiavone, of Bangor, RD 3, was married on April 29 at 11 a. m. in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, Roseto, to Michael John DeVito, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael DeVito of 241 North Fourth St., Bangor.

Rev. Eugene A. Davis, CM, assistant, was the officiating clergyman.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of silk organza and hand-clipped Chantilly lace over taffeta. The sabrina neckline was outlined with pearls and sequins and the bouffant skirt was decorated with tiers of lace and appliqued lace motifs on the panels. A veil of silk illusion fell from a crystal crown and she carried a prayer book with white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Loretta Punturo, of 244 North Seventh St., Bangor, as maid of honor, wore a gown of Japanese violet organza with a matching crown.

Patrick Schiavone, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were Nicholas Martocci, cousin of the bride of College Park, Md., and Joseph Awdish, of Allentown.

Mrs. Lucy Ronco, of Roseto, was organist and Mrs. Geraldine Reto, of Pen Argyl, cousin of the bride, was soloist.

After a wedding trip to Florida, they will make their home at 524 1/2 South First St., Bangor.

The bride attended Plus X High School and is employed by the Honey Bee Sportswear Co. Mr. DeVito attended Bangor High School and is employed by George M. Brewster and Son Construction Co., Clinton, N. J.

Deanery To Meet Here On Sunday

Mrs. Thomas Burke of Carbon-dale, president of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women will be the guest speaker at the meeting of Monroe-Pike Deanery on Sunday at 2 p. m. at St. Matthew's Church, East Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Burke who was re-elected at the recent convention in Scranton has spent much of her life in community welfare. She founded the Lackawanna Co. Muscular Dystrophy Assn. and was its president. She is a member of the Lackawanna Co. United Fund, the St. Joseph Maternity Hospital, Service for the Handicapped and is presently working for her master's degree at Marywood College.

Her subject will be the conditions she found in her trip around the world.

Bishop Hannon awards will be presented to the eight parishes who earned them and will be accepted by the Altar and Rosary Society presidents from each parish.

Six deanery chairmen and the presidents will give their six-month reports, and an amendment to the constitution will be presented.

Mrs. Michael Chopko will preside at the meeting of which Mrs. James Cummings is chairman. Rev. William Cusick is deanery moderator and Mrs. Arthur Blewitt president of the host society.

King Hussein Will Marry English Girl

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—The future queen of Jordan revealed Tuesday she once surveyed her new kingdom from behind a telephone switchboard.

The former Toni Avril Gardiner, 20-year-old English girl King Hussein has chosen as his second wife, told newsmen she was a telephone operator for a film company before meeting the ruler of this Middle East kingdom, and once took a secretarial course in England.

But it was clear the bride-to-be was not a working girl out of necessity. Her father, Col. W. P. Gardiner, is a technical expert with Hussein's Royal Jordanian Engineers. And the future queen in a news conference rattled off a list of private schools she attended in Britain and Malaya, where her father once was stationed.

She also revealed she already is thinking like a queen. "I shall place myself at the service of this country," she pledged. She dressed plainly to meet newsmen, wearing a skirt and blouse.

Hussein, 25, announced his engagement Monday night in a nationwide broadcast, saying he wants a male heir to his throne. He divorced his first wife, Princess Dina Abdel Hamid, in 1957 after she bore him a daughter during their two years of marriage.

Miss Gardiner, who has taken the name Mona el Hussein and has become a Moslem, declined to speculate on a marriage date, but said her wedding trousseau was being prepared in Beirut and would be "arriving shortly."

Col. Gardiner and his wife told newsmen they are delighted with the engagement. And so are the citizens of Amman. "Vast crowds surged through the streets of the capital shouting slogans for Hussein."

Sheltered Workshop Goal Of Junior Woman's Work

The Junior Woman's Club adopted the proposed Sheltered Workshop being promoted by the Monroe County Mentally Retarded Children's Assn., as their major welfare project for 1961-62, at the annual meeting held Tuesday night at the Stroud Community Club.

To raise funds for the project, the members will be divided into project teams, each with its own fund-raising activity.

It is the same system followed this year. Mrs. Stanley Grace, welfare chairman, reported a successful year with more than $1,100 raised for welfare.

Mrs. Lawrence Levy named Mrs. Paul Edinger, Mrs. Harold Bentzoni, and Mrs. Richard Phillips to the auditing committee.

Since the Junior Woman's Club is sponsoring the Laurel Blossom Ball as their final project of the year, they will continue their meetings through June.

If they realize enough funds, they will carry through their plans for renovations of the Mansion House kitchen. Mrs.

The Wyckoff Shopper

Mary Hitesman and I did it again! I'm not sure how we mastered the art, but we can get lost anytime in a way no one else EVER could . . . and right here in our own country, too!

We recognized our knack for this some time ago when we were going to Canadensis, of all places! If ever there was a well known resort community, it's that one, and I was to speak there at the Catholic church. Well . . . we dined at Landi's, and then somehow or other made a wrong turn and arrived at Buck Hill.

Then, last Saturday night, we headed for Meisertown via Analomink. We remembered to turn left at the Cherry Lane Church . . . but, for some strange reason, we took a wrong road and, after a drive that seemed endless, found ourselves at Tannersville Inn. So . . . we continued on to Swiftwater and, following careful instructions to turn right at the Post Office, we finally reached our destination, late but triumphant.

Beginning today, I am starting a week's vacation and I'm quite sure it would be a good idea if I'd spent the time riding our Wyckoff delivery trucks, and getting better acquainted with the area right around home. One thing's certain, if there are road maps of Monroe County, Mary and I could each use one.

Prior to the card party at Pocono Country Lodge, benefiting the pretty little Pocono Union Church at Meisertown, Mary and I called at the McCool home, where I met Mr. Thomas McCool Sr., a jovial gentleman who, I am sure, have much in common with the Mr. Wyckoff who heads our store family.

Mr. McCool has many varied interests, and Mary and I enjoyed seeing some of the 3000 books on all sorts of topics (including many that are so old they are real collectors' item) . . . etchings and lithographs, as well as guns, that he has collected. He is quite a gardener too, and showed us crate after crate of all kinds of seedlings that are growing healthily.

It is wonderful to meet so many pleasant people with so many hobbies, and I enjoy this phase of my work more than any other.

Then on to the party, which was attended by 80-some men and women, any of whom looked familiar because they are regular Wyckoff customers. My longtime friend, Irene Gerard was there but was so intent on her cards she never saw me. So was Mrs. Kresge (Helen, isn't it?) who was so kind to my son when he was hospitalized, and is always so cheerful and friendly . . . and I also saw the Walter Marshalls and Mae and Charles Frank.

Mrs. McCool placed us at a table with a couple named Weiss, who live in Brooklyn but have loved the Poconos since their first visit a year ago, and were here for the weekend to prepare their cottage for the season. "I recognize you" Mr. Weiss informed Mary "because I visit Wyckoff's and love shopping your gadget bar. I was in there just the other day."

Mrs. Weiss said she recognized my voice from the radio, and both agreed that they endorse Wyckoff's. "I can remember your store from years back," Mrs. Weiss said, "and I've always enjoyed looking around."

"We both look around," Mr. Weiss agreed, adding, with a chuckle, "Sometimes we even spend money."

His wife laughed. "You can say that again!" she exclaimed.

Folks like that are MY kind of people . . . all we ask — is for more and more of them.

PESSIMA RANTED AGAINST ALL DOCTORS WHEN JIMMY'S BUSTED WING COST HER THE PRICE OF A NEW NEGLIGEE

BUT, OH, HOW SHE'S CHANGED THE LIBRETTO SINCE HER KID IS DOING THE DR. KILDARE BIT

CLAREMONT, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Loyal Lincoln Wirt, once famed saddlebag missionary to California mining camps and the Klondike gold rush, has died in a retirement home where he had lived for about 30 years. He would have been 98 today. Even after supposedly retiring he extended a career begun in 1890. In 1948-56 he was pastor of the Community Congregational church in Elkhart, near here. In 1958, at 95, he established a Congregational church in Flagstaff, Ariz. Born at Lamont, Mich., the son of a Congregational minister, and graduated in 1890 from Pacific Theological Seminary, Oakland, Calif., Dr. Wirt in an active and varied career.

Says Crozier's Trainer Derby Record May Fall In 87th Event Saturday

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sixteen horses may be entered Thursday for the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby, and with a lot of speedy colts on hand one trainer predicted Whirlaway's 20-year-old Churchill Downs track record might go by the boards.

Chuck Parke, who trains Crozier for Fred W. Hooper, said the winner of Saturday's 3-year-old classic might shatter Whirlaway's derby and track mark set in 1941.

Whirlaway skipped the mile and one quarter in 2 minutes, 1 1/2 seconds.

Pirates Defeated By Cardinals 3-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bob Gibson with an assist from Lindy McDaniel pitched the St. Louis Cardinals past Pittsburgh Wednesday night 3-1, halting a three-game Redbird skid and knocking the Pirates out of first place in the National League.

Gibson gave up only five hits, walked two and fanned four in getting his first victory of the season without a defeat. The only Pirate run was Rocky Nelson's eighth-inning homer.

The 25-year-old former Harlem Globe Trotter now has a 2-64 earned run average for 27 1/3 innings this season.

Track, 85-46

KUTZTOWN—East Stroudsburg State College won 11 events Tuesday, to post an easy 85-46 track win over Kutztown State.

The Pirates rapped Lindy for two hits, but Hal Smith picked Roberto Clemente off first to end the eighth and Don Taussig's great running catch in the ninth was turned into a game-ending double play.

Other Winners
The other East Stroudsburg winners were: Dune Tot (440), Joe O'Neill (220), John Buchy (Two Miles), Bruce Thomas (shotput), and Carl Hoppe (tied for first in pole vault).

Romano Homers
Romano also hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning to give the Tribe a 3-0 lead.

Yanks Bomb Twins

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The New York Yankees bombed the Minnesota Twins with seven runs in two big innings and swept the second of their three-game stand 7-3 Wednesday.

For the second day in a row the Yanks teed off on an ace Twins pitcher, shelling Pedro Ramos in the seventh with a four-run, four-hit outburst. Camilo Pascual lost to the Yankees Tuesday.

Unearned Runs
New York got to Ramos for three unearned runs in the fourth on a combination of two hits, a walk, and two errors.

Carry Back
Carry Back, winner of the Flamingo and Florida Derby, is a come-from-behind runner who bypassed the Derby Trial. Leonard P. Sasso's Globemaster, another speed demon, upset Carry Back in the Wood Memorial April 22 at Jamaica.

WINNING COMBINATION—Crozier, which won the Derby Trial in record-breaking time, is shown with its trainer, Chuck Parke, at Churchill Downs, Ky. Win established the Fred W. Hooper colt among favorites for the Kentucky Derby.

Carry Back Favored
Carry Back is quoted as the 8.5 favorite. Four-and-Twenty lost support after he set the trial pace, then wilted in the stretch. He had been the co-favorite at 3-1 with Carry Back.

In Eight Innings Stroud Union Beaten 2-1 By Whitehall On Errors

WHITEHALL pushed across an unearned run in the eighth inning Tuesday to hand Stroud Union High School a 2-1 Lehigh Valley League loss.

Loney Singles
Loney gave up nine hits and one unearned run. He walked five and struck out five. He also collected one of the Mounties' hits, a sharp single to left field. Right fielder Bill Queenan had the other Mountie hit, a double but he was picked off second base.

With two outs in the eighth, centerfielder George Kresge dropped Bill Yost's fly ball and it went for a three base error. Tom Roth singled Yost home with the winning run.

It was the second league loss for the Mountaineers, in three games. The Mounties have an overall mark of 3-2.

The lone Mountie run came in the fourth inning, when George Kresge, who reached second on a two base error and moved to third on an infield out, scored on Glenn Bisbing's fielder's choice.

Both of Whitehall's runs were unearned. The first run was in the seventh inning, when Bisbing's error, allowed Tom Yakubecker to reach first. A fielder's choice and a single, scored Yakubecker to tie the score.

Stroud Union managed only two hits off of winner Bob Steckle but the Mounties managed to take a 1-0 lead into the bottom of the seventh.

Warren Loney, who went into the game with a sore arm, worked seven innings for the Mounties, before giving way to Mike Strunk in the eighth.

Chapel Hill, N.C. (AP) — Doug Moe, star basketball player at the University of North Carolina, was indefinitely suspended from school Wednesday for failing to report bribe offers in the current basketball fix scandal.

Moe, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was suspended by Chancellor William B. Aycock for not reporting that he had accepted $75 last September from a New York gambler now under indictment in the nation's latest basketball point-shaving scandal.

The 200-pound, 6-6 Moe admitted last week he accepted the money but did not agree to become involved in point-shaving.

Cavaliers List Grass Event

EAST Stroudsburg High School will prove Monday that you don't have to have a cinder track to hold track meets.

The Cavaliers will host Pen Argyl in a dual meet Monday at 3:45, with the running events to be held on a grass course, laid out around the football field.

Actually track meets on grass are not new. The Australians hold most of their meets on grass and many of the European events are on turf.

And grass events are run at the Penn and Drake Relays. While times in the sprint events may suffer a few fractions of a second on grass, there is almost no difference in the distance times. In fact many distance runners prefer to run on grass, because in hot weather the grass is much cooler than cinders.

Perhaps other area schools, who have track teams but no track, will swing to the grass idea.

Water Gap Opens Golf Season

Water Gap Country Club will officially open its fourth golf season Saturday.

A golf tournament for members and guests with a dance following in the evening.

And the club's golf committee plans to take some of "monster" out of the fourth hole, which has a huge ravine running along the left side of the five par dogleg.

Players, who hit a ball into the ravine, will have two options. They can either play the ball out of the ravine or drop the ball, with a one stroke penalty in a drop zone at the end of the ravine nearest the tee.

Warren Counterman, of West Bangor, has landed one of the largest brown trout caught this year at Saylor's Lake, a 22-inch catch.

The lake plans to stock more trout May 13 at 4 p. m. with fishing resuming the next day at 5 a. m.

And the owners of Greenwalk Trout Hatchery of Bangor are offering a cash prize for the first tagged trout caught at Saylor's Lake.

Warriors In Conference Golf Tourney

East Stroudsburg State College will compete in the fourth annual Pennsylvania State College Conference golf tournament at Shippensburg Monday.

Shawnee Inn hopes to open an additional nine holes on its golf course shortly. That will give Fred Waring's establishment 27 holes of golf, with all but three holes on an island in the Delaware River.

Horne Harshorn, manager of Readers, has been named chairman of the Pocono Mountain Baseball League trophy committee.

The committee, which is made up of a representative of each of the league's eight teams, will meet Wednesday at the home of John Wernett in Saylorburg.

The PML will hold its next meeting May 15 at Holland's Restaurant in Saylorburg.

Collura's Sweep Heads Slater Win

BANGOR — Unbeaten Bob Collura scored his fifth straight triple win Tuesday, as the Bangor High School track team beat Nazareth 58-41.

Collura won the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes and in the 100' and 220 beat Nazareth's Jeff Marsh, who had been billed as the top sprinter in the Lehigh-Northern League.

But Collura, who split two races with Marsh last season had everything his own way Tuesday.

Giants Win On Errors By Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—A shaky Chicago defense, leaking three unearned runs, and Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer boosted the San Francisco Giants to an 8-4 victory over the Cubs Wednesday.

Cepeda's bleacher shot in the sixth gave the Giants 15 homers in four consecutive games, one behind the major league record set by the Milwaukee Braves in 1953 and again in 1956. Tuesday, the Giants matched the three-game record of 14 homers.

Chicago's Ernie Banks slammed his Nos. 4 and 5 home runs of the season, but both were solo blasts which didn't help the luckless lose Jack Curtis, who yielded only five hits before he was sent to cover in a three-run Giant seventh.

O'Dell Wins

The winner was Billy O'Dell, summoned hurriedly when starter Mike McCormick suffered a gashed lip from a bouncer off the bat of the second Cub batter of the game, Don Zimmer.

O'Dell quit for a pinch hitter in the seventh after allowing two runs and eight hits in six innings, and Bob Bolin finished for the Giants.

The Giants put the game on ice with a pair in the ninth on two singles and Willie McCovey's double.

Musicians Local Get 'Thank You's'

BANGOR—Thank you notes were received from several organizations at the monthly meeting of the Bangor-Stroudsburg Local No. 577 American Federation of Musicians during Tuesday night.

These notes included messages from the Portland Presbyterian Church; Laurel Manor, Stroudsburg; and the sophomore class of Bangor Area Joint High School.

Music had been provided for these organizations through the record and transcription fund.

Carl Rice conducted the session. Business agent's report was given by Neil Maso and the secretary-treasurer's report by Sammy Canova.

To Provide Music

Fred Sabatine, record and transcription chairman, announced the following dates for providing music:

May 8, Charley Morgan, Pen Argyz High School; May 14, local concert band, Pen Argyz Presbyterian Church; May 19, Skinny Edinger Orchestra, Middle Smithfield School; May 28, concert band, Weona Park, Pen Argyz.

Paul Mauger, member of the organization, is in the Veterans Hospital, Wilkes-Barre, it was announced.

Penn-Del-Mar Conference will be held at Baltimore, Md., May 6-7. Delegates are Joseph Falcone, Fred Sabatine, Sammy Canova.

President Rice urged all orchestra leaders to contact the secretary if they are interested and available for summer engagements.

Arlington Lambert

Ex-Marine Enlists In Army

SGT. Donald K. Smith, Stroudsburg Army recruiter, announced yesterday that Arlington Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell O. Lambert, of 565 Main St., Stroudsburg, enlisted in the Regular Army for a three-year period.

He is a veteran of four years service in the Marine Corps and since his discharge a year ago has been employed by Trumatic Machine and Tool Co.

Lambert is married to the former Ruth Stettler of Mt. Pocono. His wife and daughter (Kelly Lee) are residing temporarily with her mother and father at Mt. Pocono.

Young Lambert enlisted under the United States Army's Air Defense Program (choose the city of your choice) and was assigned for duty at Arlington Heights, Ill. a suburb of Chicago.

He is presently at Fort Dix, N.J., completing records and being issued uniforms. He plans on picking up his wife and daughter in a few days and taking them with him to Illinois.

Sgt. Smith stated that 14 cities are available for the month of May for young men wishing to enlist for the Air Defense Command. For information Phone HA 1-4911.

STATE POLICE Cadet Lloyd E. Neal of Saylorsburg is among the 89 new Pennsylvania State Troopers scheduled to be graduated Thursday from the State Police Academy, Hershey.

Fix Bill Not Severe Enough

HARRISBURG — Sen. John Van Sant, R-Lehigh, said last night, "The bill I introduced in 1951 when I was a member of the House is not severe enough to put fear into the rattlesnake fixers of athletic events." He introduced a new measure Tuesday which provides for minimum penalties.

The minimum penalty the court can now impose is two years imprisonment and $2,000 fine.

The measure became a law in 1951 and provided for 10 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine as the maximum for those convicted of involvement in offering or accepting bribes to throw games.

Tyrrell Will Get Life Term

LEWIS W. Tyrrell, 40, of Upper Mount Bethel Township, will be sentenced Monday to life imprisonment for the shotgun killing of his 52-year old wife.

Tyrrell will start serving the sentence in the Northampton County prison, where he is now being held.

He pleaded guilty to a general charge of murder Sept. 12. After hearing testimony in the case, the court adjudged him guilty of first-degree murder.

Police Robbed

BARNES, England (AP) — Police gruffly admitted the theft of 74 pounds ($200) from a safe inside the local police station. Senior detectives were called in to interrogate constables and other staff subordinates.

Tech School Measure To Be Introduced

HARRISBURG — Legislation designed to establish technical and vocational schools in the depressed areas of the state will be introduced in the legislature within the next several weeks.

Gov. David Lawrence appointed a Technical and Vocational Study Committee after receiving his report from the education committee.

The 24-member education committee has had three meetings and are scheduled to meet again in the near future.

Out of this meeting will come the report along with recommendations that will be submitted to the Legislature.

The emphasis will be on adult training, or retraining, of workers.

Rural Mail Box Renovating Program Set For May 15-20

THE annual rural mail box improvement program, to assist the postal service in providing more efficient deliveries and to stimulate efforts to improve the appearance of the countryside, will be held May 15 to 20, in Washington, D.C., a spokesman for the Post Office Department announced last night.

The program is to encourage patrons to provide suitable mail receptacles erected and maintained for easy and safe accessibility presenting a neat appearance, and affording protection to the mail.

Five suggestions have been given for the improvement of rural mail boxes. They are:

Boxes that are not properly erected, or not maintained in good serviceable condition retard the delivery of mail and expose it to the weather.

Boxes which are no longer serviceable should be replaced.

Name of the owner should be inscribed on the side of the box so it will be visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door if the boxes are grouped.

Boxes and supports should be kept painted, preferably white, but other colors may be used.

Mail Boxes on rural and star routes should be located on the right side of the road in the direction of travel of the carriers in all cases where traffic conditions are such that it would be dangerous for the carriers to drive to the left in order to serve the boxes, or where their doing so would constitute a violation of state or local laws and regulations.

The approaches to the boxes should be filled and properly graded and unobstructed at all times.

4-H Club Elects Keiper

BLAKESLEE — Darwin Keiper was elected president of the Blakeslee 4-H Club at a recent meeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kerriek.

Other officers elected are Billy Knowles, vice president; David Blakeslee, secretary, and Al Kerriek, treasurer.

Following the election a short discussion was held in regards to raising money for the club. The boys decided to levy dues at 25 cents per month as one way to increase the treasury.

Leigh R. Reed, assistant county agent, was present and showed a film on wildlife to the membership.

Grants Bill For State Colleges

HARRISBURG — A plan to permit state colleges to accept grants and participate in research programs was given preliminary Senate approval by the education committee.

The House approved measure was sent to the floor for a vote without change.

The committee also cleared for floor action a measure to permit appointment of educational specialists in lieu of assistant county superintendents. It previously was approved by the House.

The Daily Investor

Invest, Don't Gamble

By William A. Doyle

Q. I own a number of different stocks. About half of them do not pay dividends and are now quoted below the prices I paid for them. Is this about par for the course? I would sell but I cannot afford to take the loss.

A. Nope, it's not even close to par. Even the world's worst golfer doesn't dub every shot.

Many stocks do not pay dividends. It's not unusual for a corporation to "plow back" all its earnings into the balance. The idea is to expand the business.

If this is done successfully, the company grows. If all goes well, the stockholders benefit from this growth—as the market price of the stock increases.

This is a basic system of many "growth companies." It makes their stocks "growth situations."

But this evidently hasn't worked out for the stocks you bought. They haven't grown. They've shrunk.

You'll never come close to par for the course, as long as you keep using the wrong clubs.

You say you "can't afford to take the loss." You already have taken the loss. Unless you have real reason to believe that your recovery, you should get out of them and put your money to work where it will do you some good.

Now is the time to get out of the speculative sand trap.

Step up to the tee. Keep your head down, eye on the ball; right elbow in; left arm straight; bring your club back slowly. Invest; don't gamble.

A. No. The stock belongs to your son. You are simply the custodian. The gift to minors law allows you to sell the stock and either reinvest the money, "within the limits of prudence," for your son or spend the money for the benefit of your son.

If the stock is sold at a profit, that profit will be your son's profit—not yours. The same thing applies if the stock is sold at a loss. The loss "realized" at the time of the sale is your son's loss.

Q. My husband owns some stock in a company which will hold its annual stockholders meeting soon. He can't attend, because he will be working. May I go, in his place?

A. Yes. He can sign his proxy over to you. That will give you the right to attend and vote his shares.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Beck Named To Bangor Position

BANGOR—Clarence J. Beck, of S. Main St., a retired foreman of the Bangor Gas Co., was elected Chief Plumbing Inspector in the borough over four other applicants at the recent meeting of the Bangor Borough Council.

The other applicants were Arlington Houck, Lewis Caracio, and Steward Rice, all of Bangor, and D. L. Finian, of Wind Gap.

The council also received two additional applications for the position of special police in the borough. They were from Larry Raph and Edward Lobb.

Council ordered these names to be added to the list of other applicants and slated them for consideration at a meeting to be held at a later date.

Additional Streets

Council also ordered the ordaining of three additional streets in the borough. Namely, 13th, N. 10th, from the borough park to Pennsylvania Ave., and an addition to N. 10th Street to the dead end.

The secretary was instructed to send a letter to Bangor Park Board commending it on recent improvements in the park and council was informed that the reconstruction of destroyed sidewalks on lower South Main Street would be started within a week.

Melvin Brands, representing residents of N. Main St., appeared before council relative to excessive fill being dumped into Martins Creek in the construction of a new Route 191.

These residents feared high water would inundate portions of their property. Council informed the complainants it would refer the problem to the state highway department.

Request Repair

At the request of Willis Gardner and John Buzzard, representing the Bangor Board of Health, council will request the sewer construction company to repair a gutter damage and sewage seepage that is occurring on a portion of Northampton St.

Students of Bangor Area Joint High School will serve as officers of the borough in the observance of Student Government Day, May 10, were introduced to council by Earl Van Doren, who will serve as chief burgess.

Council reported that it will offer a street grader and an obsolete roller for sale in the next week or so.

In other action, council approved an eight-week recreational program starting on June 25 for pupils in grades three to six inclusive at the Bangor Memorial Park. This program is being jointly sponsored with the Bangor Board of Education and will be supervised by the Bangor Park Board.

Retired Teachers Bill Okayed

HARRISBURG (AP)—A measure to bring up to a minimum of $1,800 annually the pensions of long retired school teachers was approved 49-0 in the senate.

It would extend for another two years the deadline for bringing the pensions into line with more recently retired teachers.

The $1,800 minimum would include money received under Social Security. The state will make up the difference to give these teachers at least $50 a month.

The measure also extends the minimum pension to teachers who retired early because of disability.

Senators estimate that the some 5,000 teachers will benefit from the extension, which would run until mid 1963.

Another bill approved 49-0 and sent to the governor would abolish the Anthracite Mine Drainage Study Commission.

Cancer Crusade At 88.4 Per Cent

THE 1961 Cancer Crusades now stands at 88.4 percent of the quota, Richard Walter, chairman, announced last night.

He also expressed the hope that with further returns from special gifts and final reports from the house-to-house canvassers, the quota could be achieved and the campaign closed this week.

The Cancer crusade received a boost from three special performances of a movie at the Sherman Theatre, donated by the owners, last week.
